

AIDS seminar attended by more than 300

More than 300 health care professionals jammed Kettler Gymnasium at St. Elizabeth Medical Center on Monday to learn more about AIDS (acquired immunodeficiency syndrome) treatment and avoidance. Speaking was an Illinois health care team which has been taking its message across the state.

The gathering was reassured by some but not all of the disclosures.

The seminar at SEMC was the eighth and final one of the group's three-week tour, which saw previous stops made in Carbondale, Bloomington-Normal, Springfield, Rockford, Galesburg, Sugar Grove and Mt. Vernon.

THE SEMINAR was conducted by Carol Gibson, a health care professional in the Division of Infectious Diseases of the Illinois Department of Health; Barbara Stevko, M.D., a physician on contract from Chicago with the Illinois Department of Health; Lois Damashek, a health educator; and Chet June, head of public information for the Illinois Department of Public Health.

"We've had seminars around the state, primarily outside the Chicago area," June said. "The seminars deal with AIDS treatment, therapies, and general information on how medical personnel — dentist office workers, school nurses, funeral directors — should deal with AIDS based on the most current information.

"Illinois, it should be noted, is not the first or only state to be conducting AIDS seminars such as these. I think most states are beginning to do this. This is the first effort we've done."

THE GRANITE CITY seminar included a slide presentation which lasted one hour, plus various talks and a question-and-answer session. The entire seminar lasted four hours.

June said all of the seminars have been "very full," and gave 400 to 450 as the number of participants attending most of the seminars.

"Considering the apparent success of the seminars and the positive feedback we've heard from exiting participants, our group has further plans in the making. We're seriously considering going on a statewide teleconferencing network that we have in several hospitals and schools," he said.

FROM THE START, the group has been concerned with informing and educating health care professionals about AIDS, and to clear up any misconceptions they may have had.

Asked to expound on AIDS misconceptions, June said, "I think it's somewhat like the 'plague panic' that went on with polio in the early '50s."

"People don't know how it's transmitted or how they're getting it. We know it's a virus but we don't know how it's spread, and people panicked about it."

"WHAT WE'RE TRYING to do is tell everyone, 'Here is the information, and the best information we have. And here's what we and the Center for Disease Control recommend you do to protect yourself as a health professional and how also to treat the patient.'"

As of Aug. 20, 1985, there had been 12,399 reported cases of AIDS in the United States. More than half have died.

June said from 1979 to the end of September 1985, there were a total of 300 cases reported in Illinois, of which 156 have died.

"IF YOU'RE DIAGNOSED as having AIDS," he said, "the odds are you're going to die."

For all interested in learning more about AIDS, June said, they can get information by calling the AIDS hotline number at 1-800-AID-AIDS (1-800-243-2437).

City OKs first sewer rehabilitation step

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The first step toward rehabilitation of the city's sanitary sewer system was taken Tuesday night: when aldermen agreed to have a study performed.

The City Council contracted for the services of Horner and Shifrin, a St. Louis engineering company. Horner and Shifrin will be aided in the study by Juncos and Associates, a Granite City engineering firm, and John Mathes Co., a geotechnical firm from Columbia.

COST OF THE STUDY was not specified in the contract. Henry Bieniecki, assistant to Mayor Von Dee Cruse, said the maximum cost of the engineering work will be $55,000. Other miscellaneous costs, such as TV camera surveys of the various sewer lines, could bring the total cost up to $77,000.

Bieniecki said the study will be comprehensive and is being performed by reputable firms.

The city was aided in its selection of an engineering firm by Dr. Paul Munger, director of the River Institute at the University of Missouri-Rolla.

CRUSE SAID HE also is pleased that the study is to be done.

"This is the first step in the rehabilitation of our sewer system," he said. "The study will give us not only options for ways to repair or replace the system, but also options for financing the work."

The study is targeted for completion in mid-March of 1986.

THE STUDY WILL BE the sixth survey the city has conducted on its sewer system since 1961.

Some of the work that will be performed includes:

- A review of all previous engineering reports.

- A review of the construction drawings and specifications used on the Namecki sewer system. This includes additions and alterations to the system.

- A review of groundwater data that has been compiled by the Illinois State Water Survey, the Corps of Engineers and the city.

- An evaluation of the groundwater data in relation to the sewer breaks.

- A traverse of all of the lines involved in the 250,000-foot sewer system. This includes surveys of areas where there are breaks or where the soil indicates a break may be developing.

- A detailed inspection of the lines suspected of breaking and the affected manholes and lift stations, with visual and TV inspection.

- An evaluation of the repairs already made to the system, along with an evaluation of the city's former grouting system.

- A breakdown of the city's system into sub-drainage systems, using one of the sub-systems for a detailed analysis.

Lahr ruled eligible for school board

By RACHEL NEWSOME
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Ruth Lahr is "not in conflict with the School Code" in her attempt to seek reelection to the school board.

That opinion came from William Schooley Jr., the board's attorney, at Tuesday's meeting.

Schooley said Lahr, who retired after service as a teacher and school administrator, is not in conflict with the code for the following reasons:

1. "The intent of the district was that Section 6 of an agreement outlining retirement pay was not to be a binding agreement for the retirees to perform services.

2. "Were Section 6 considered to be a binding agreement upon retirees to perform services, the agreement is not of the nature which the Illinois legislature intended to prohibit."

"CONSIDERING THAT it is my opinion that there is not a binding agreement for board member Lahr to perform services, it follows that she is not in violation of the Financial Disclosure Act," Schooley said.

"However, because of the complexity of the circumstances and because a court may interpret and apply the facts differently than I, the better practice for board member Lahr would be for her to report the agreement on her financial interest statement."

At the board's last regular meeting Sept. 24, the board asked Schooley to have an opinion by Tuesday's meeting if an opinion from the Illinois attorney general's office had not been given.

HER ELIGIBILITY for candidacy had been questioned by Robert Crider of Granite City, a former board member who moved back to Granite City in the past year.

Crider forwarded a petition signed by him and 14 others to the office of Dick Allen, Madison County state's attorney, in early September.

Allen sent the petition on to the attorney general's office for an opinion.

IN A LETTER to Allen, Crider questioned Lahr's eligibility for being a board member because of her previous employment by the district.

No state legal opinion has been announced yet and the election is 12 days away.

Adlai Stevenson announces candidacy for state governorship

By DAVID GOSNELL
Staff writer

CAHOKIA — Former U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson III hopped on two bandwagons yesterday.

Stevenson joined the St. Louis Baseball Cardinal mania when he said, "I'm here to wish the Cardinals well," as he landed at the St. Louis Downtown-Parks Airport in Cahokia. He then accepted a bright red T-shirt from a Godfrey youngster which bore "Cardinals in '86" on one side and "Adlai in '86" on the other.

But the real reason Stevenson made his way to the area came seconds later.

"BUT AS LONG AS I'm here, I'm running for governor," he said.

Stevenson launched his run for the governorship of Illinois by making a whirlwind tour of the state on Tuesday which included a stop at the Cahokia airport.

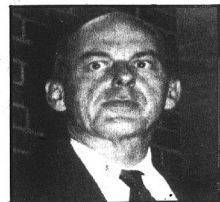

Appearing with his wife, Nancy, at his side, Stevenson opened his campaign by striking a populist tone and attacking what he perceives as "insider" politics in Illinois.

HE SAID ILLINOIS government is run by "insiders" who make political decisions based on political considerations rather than decisions based on what's good for Illinois' economy.

"Everybody gets rich by this system but the people," he said.

Calling Illinois "the nation's crossroad and the nation's heartland," Stevenson blamed the state's slumping economic indicators on what he called the old way of making political decisions.

"WHY IS IT WE FALL behind all other states?" he asked. "The cause is politics. That's why I'm running. To change the politics. I want to clean up the mess."

Adlai Stevenson

Stevenson appeared to change his campaign style from the last time he ran for governor in 1962, when he lost by a razor-thin margin to Gov. Jim Thompson. His answers to reporters' questions were often

'Why is it we fall behind all other states? The cause is politics. That's why I'm running. To change the politics.'

short ones, as opposed to more lengthy answers he often gave in the last race.

When commenting about his two opponents, his Democratic primary opponent Attorney General Neil Hartigan and Republican Gov. Thompson, Stevenson said there was "not much difference. If you want more of the same, vote for Jim Thompson and Neil Hartigan."

BUT RECENT CHARGES by Hartigan that Stevenson, as a senator, was partly to blame for the loss of a major airport project in Columbia-Waterloo did not go unchallenged.

"We lost it because we didn't have the support of the (federal) government," he said, adding that Missouri had rallied its entire political delegation to oppose the project better than Illinois did to get the project through Congress.

He also mentioned the possibility of Hartigan making a "deal" with then-President Richard Nixon when the airport project was cancelled.

TO COUNTER HARTIGAN'S charges of being an ineffective senator for Illinois, Stevenson said he had "fought the lonely fight" in getting legislation passed that paved the way for the new Alton Lock and Dam to be built.

One of the main reasons why Stevenson said he decided to run for governor again was the thought of Hartigan being the only Democratic candidate.

"I didn't run until I found out Neil Hartigan offered the only alternative," he said.

QUESTIONED ON WHY he did not seem to have the support of many local Democratic leaders, Stevenson replied, "I'd like to have more support from local politicians, but what I need is not the support of the politicians but the support of the people."

Stevenson also criticized Gov. Thompson's Build Illinois project, saying the project "definitely should have changed this area." He used the project as an example of how he said Thompson uses such projects to his political advantage.

Teachers may strike

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

The possibility of a strike by teachers in the Madison School District will be discussed at a public meeting at 4 p.m. today at the Madison Middle School, Caine Drive and Parish Street. No strike date has been set.

Willie Dennis, president of Madison Federation of Teachers Local 763, said the meeting was called by the executive body of the local to enable teachers in the district to discuss whether to go on strike, and to alert parents.

FACULTY MEMBERS have been working despite the expiration of their previous contract June 30, but indicate this will not continue indefinitely. Negotiations have taken place but have not yet led to a settlement.

A school district rule is that anyone wanting to use a school building must first get permission from the Board of Education. Dennis said this has not been done, but he sees no problem and believes the

MESD balks at appraisal bill

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A bill has been presented to the Metro-East Sanitary District, but MESD officials say they never agreed to pay it.

MESD owes $10,360 as its share for a professional appraisal of Granite City Steel, according to a letter from Granite City School District attorney William Schooley.

THE APPRAISAL was performed when the steel plant disputed its assessment, contending the property's value was much lower than the county's assessment.

Led by the Granite City School District, area taxing districts obtained an appraisal of the property and the case was settled. MESD was to pay about 4.6 percent of the $225,000 appraisal cost based on the tax revenues MESD receives from the steel plant.

But MESD Board member Bob Bergman has objected to paying for the appraisal.

"IF WE GO UP FRONT as a joint venture and say, 'Let's fight this,' but when it's an afterthought, let Granite City handle it," he said during Thursday's MESD board meeting.

"It was brought up at a meeting and Dave (board member Dave Bergfeld) said something about it shouldn't be our cup of tea," MESD Executive Director Shang Greathouse said.

"I know we didn't sign anything, but the others (taxing districts) are picking it up. We had a chance to lose a great amount."

MESD WILL RECEIVE $3,421 more in property tax revenues from Granite City Steel this year, Greathouse said, and the sanitary district will receive $9,925 more in property tax revenue from the plant next year.

A letter requesting MESD's participation in paying for the appraisal was presented to the MESD board in September 1984.

At that time, Bergfeld and Bergman objected to getting involved with the appraisal, saying the case should be decided by local tax assessors instead of a hired appraiser.

The board took no action on the request at that time, and tabled the final bill at Thursday's meeting.

OTHER ACTION

Land leased by MESD will now belong to MESD, following the board's approval of a land donation.

MESD had a 100-year lease with the St. Louis Area Support Center (Granite City Army Installation) on almost three acres that extend from the Madison pump station to the Mississippi River. The government now wants to sell surrounding land and has offered the leased property to MESD.

The leased property takes stormwater from the Madison station to the river, Greathouse explained.

"We should take it because it's part of our operation, really," he said.

The resolution accepting the property includes a stipulation by Bergman that MESD will receive the property "as long as there's no cost to us."

R.H. Karandjeff on board of state independent banks

Robert H. Karandjeff, executive vice president, American Heritage Bank of Granite City, has been appointed group chairman of Independent Community Banks in Illinois (ICBI).

The appointment was made during the association's annual meeting held at the Omni International Hotel in St. Louis' Union Station. As group chairman, Karandjeff will serve on the board of directors and help coordinate the activities of the association.

Karandjeff has 10 years' experience in banking. His educational background includes a bachelor of arts degree from Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and a master of science degree from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He serves as a board member on the Tri-City Area YMCA and of Coordinated Youth Services. He and his wife, Janet, live in Granite City with their four children.

ICBI is a statewide association representing nearly 500 independent community banks.

Hearing to determine Pontoon annexation

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — A petition for annexation to Pontoon Beach will be the subject of a hearing before Madison County Associate Judge Edward Ferguson.

The hearing is set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 29, at the Madison County Courthouse.

THE PROPERTY proposed for annexation lies east and south of Route 162 and covers 10 parcels, including property owned by Robert J. Rickett and Gary Wright, and a tower owned by Columbia Broadcasting System Inc.

The petition was filed Oct. 4.

Any objections to the annexation must be filed five days prior to the hearing.

THE PONTOON Beach Village Board of Trustees will meet at 7 p.m. that day to consider Ferguson's decision and to take action on the annexation.

University Hospital selected as new name

Richard L. Stensrud, associate vice president, St. Louis University Medical Center, has announced the name of the hospitals has been changed to The University Hospital.

The name change is concurrent with the approval from the board of trustees to construct a $56 million replacement project this fall," said Stensrud. "The change allows for ease of identity for patients and physicians, and reflects our role as a teaching facility."

The University Hospital began in 1930 with a bequest from the Joseph Desloge family and was called Firm Desloge Hospital. In the '70s, the name was changed to St. Louis University Hospital.

As The University Hospital, the facility will continue to be a level-one trauma center, and a major resource for education, teaching and research, especially in the areas of cardiology, cancer, orthopedics, neurosurgery and behavioral medicine.

Howlett to help Howlett campaign

Michael J. Howlett, former Illinois secretary of state and 1978 nominee for governor, has told Illinois Democratic leaders he is wholeheartedly backing his son, Edward G. Howlett, for the secretary's office.

In a letter to county chairmen, state central committeemen and others, Howlett said "certain Cook County politicians" are circulating a rumor that he does not support his son's campaign.

"It is a low blow," said Michael Howlett. "I had hoped we could elevate the level of political campaigning in Illinois. A campaign should be conducted on issues, not innuendo, rumor or lies."

"Edward has my wholehearted support. I will work actively in his campaign from now until the Democratic primary March 18, 1986."

"I invite all to join me behind a candidate who knows the office thoroughly, who has studied the science of government since he was just old enough to walk, my son." Edward G. Howlett announced his candidacy on Sept. 4. He is the third of six children of Michael J. and Helen Geary Howlett.

Dr. Mayo on medical staff

Dr. Jaro Mayo II, surgeon, has joined the staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City. His practice includes vascular and general surgery and pacemaker placement.

Mayo earned both his bachelor's degree in chemistry and his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Puerto Rico. He served his residency and internship at Cleveland Clinic in Cleveland, Ohio. He completed his fellowship in vascular surgery at Lutheran Medical Center in Cleveland.

A native of Madison, Wis., Mayo now lives in Collinsville with his son. An associate of Dr. Zaki A. Sheikh, Mayo has a Granite City office in the Tricor Medical Building, 2044 Madison Ave. He plans to open offices in Wood River and Collinsville in the near future.

Office hours are by appointment at 254-6261, 288-6161, 798-3300 or 876-9004.

School elections '85

5 candidates vie for 3 BAC trusteeships

Five candidates will be vying for three positions on the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees in the Nov. 5 election. They include two newcomers and three incumbents. The following are profiles of the candidates.

Frances Braswell

A 14-cent tax rate increase for the Belleville Area College district is being questioned by Frances Braswell, 68, is seeking a two-year term on the BAC Board in the Nov. 5 election.

"I have always been interested in educational growth and development," Braswell said. "While serving on the Belleville Township High School Board of Education, of which the college was then a part, I worked toward the establishment of BAC."

"Before that, I was a member of the Board of Trustees of McKendree College. I question the necessity of almost doubling the BAC tax rate, especially with a declining enrollment and an increased tax base due to reassessment," she said.

Braswell works as a counselor with farm and business interests. She served on the Belleville High School College Board as the first woman elected to the board, from 1959 to 1982.

She has a bachelor of arts degree from Wellesley College and a master of arts in estate management from Webster University.

A 37-year resident of Belleville, Braswell said she is a candidate because she was requested to run and as a "public service to my community."

Curt Eckert

In favor of the proposed 14-cent tax increase for the Belleville Area College district is Curt Eckert, an incumbent seeking re-election to a six-year term on the BAC Board.

"I favor the tax increase because I think it is needed to bring our college up to the standards demanded by the people," said Eckert, 76, of Belleville.

Eckert also favors expansion of the district.

"Our facilities are very tight because we are serving more people, and many of the courses now in demand require more space than the older academic courses," he said.

A farmer and realtor, Eckert has served on the BAC Board since 1974. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Eckert, a past board chairman, seeks re-election because he believes "there is a job to be done and I can make a contribution."

"The college has made a lot of progress in the last five years, and I believe that, with a good board, in the future we can be more influential in the community in preparing our citizens for jobs," he said.

Larry Reineck

The most important issue affecting voters in the Nov. 5 election, in addition to the candidates, is the Belleville Area College District's tax referendum, according to Larry Reineck, who is seeking a six-year term on the BAC Board of Trustees.

Reineck is opposed to the proposed 14-cent tax rate limit increase, calling it an "educational disguise."

"It would largely go to a recreational center and a civic center in Belleville," he said. "I believe the trustees need to hold the administration accountable. The referendum never should have come to the voters at all."

I do not blame the administration for coming up with the plan. I blame the board for not stopping it. It is not an increase for education."

Reineck said he does support the Granite City Campus.

"I think it's great Granite City got its own campus. There are monies, and monies should be spent to improve the campus. There are monies in the budget," he said.

Reineck also cites projections of declining enrollments through 1990

Frances Braswell

at BAC as a reason to oppose the tax referendum.

Residing in Freeburg, Reineck is the owner-operator of a third-generation farm.

He is a graduate of Mascoutah High School. As a student, he was active in the Future Farmers of America and served as president of the chapter.

He attended BAC and received an associate degree in business administration. He also attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he received a bachelor of science degree in accounting. He worked for the R.C. Fleisum and Co. accounting firm for several years.

Reineck continues to be active in the Farm Bureau at county, state and national levels. He has served as secretary, treasurer, vice president and president of the St. Clair County Farm Bureau and as a board member for 12 years. He held the Illinois Farm Bureau Young Farmers Committee chairmanship in 1969-70.

He served as a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee. He has been an 11-year member of the board of St. Clair Ser-vise Co., a farm cooperative. In 1975, Reineck received the St. Clair County Soil and Water District Conservation Cooperator of the Year award for his soil conservation practices.

He was a member of the St. Clair County Public Building Commission, serving as treasurer and chairman. He has been a member and director of the Belleville Downtown Optimists Club.

In 1979, Reineck was a candidate for the BAC board. He has served on the BAC agricultural advisory committee for several years, chairing it during the past year.

He serves on the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's Forum as a St. Clair County representative. He is a board member of the Belleville Mental Health Center and is its finance chairman. He also belongs to the St. Louis Agri-Business Club.

He is seeking a seat on the BAC board because he feels he is qualified, adding, "I've got board experience and experience in finance. My commitment to education and BAC is sincere. I have some attributes or qualities that should be beneficial to the board."

Avery Schermer

Chairman of the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees for the past two years, Avery Schermer is seeking re-election to a six-year term in the Nov. 5 election.

Schermer was appointed to the board in 1979 following the resignation of Robert Harris. He was then elected in 1980.

Schermer, 63, founded Schermer Super Markets in Madison. A lifelong resident of the Granite City area, Schermer has been active in several community organizations, including the Lions, Urban League, Chamber of Commerce and Associated Retailers.

Before appointment to the BAC Board of Trustees, Schermer also had served on the Board of Trustees at McKendree College in Lebanon.

James Vest

Seeking election to a two-year position, he currently holds Dr. James Vest of Belleville provided no information on his candidacy to the Press-Record. A medical doctor active in emergency service and serving on the BAC board by appointment, Dr. Vest resides in Belleville. In general, he has been aligned with the policies of Chairman Schermer and the board majority.

Ragsdale seeks GOP state committee post

Dr. Edward Ragsdale, chairman of the Madison County Republican Party for the last 10 years, this week declared his candidacy for Republican state central committee member of the 21st Congressional District.

Ragsdale has long been active in the Republican Party, serving as a precinct committeeman in St. Louis, St. Louis County and Madison County for 22 years. He was elected as a delegate to the Republican National Convention, supporting President Ronald Reagan, in 1980 and 1984.

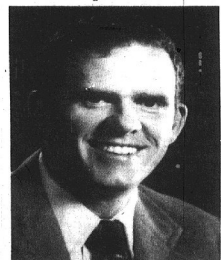

HE HAS SERVED on the executive committee of the Illinois Republican County Chairman's Association since 1978 and has attended four national Republican leadership training programs. In 1967, he served as president of St. Louis County Young Republicans, the largest Young Republican club in Missouri.

Dr. Ragsdale is a graduate of Washington University School of Medicine and received radiology specialty training at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. He is a past president of the Madison County Unit of the American Cancer Society and of the Alton Memorial Hospital Medical Staff.

Dr. Ragsdale is a veteran, with active duty at Scott Air Force Base from 1968 to 1970. He has first-hand knowledge of farm issues, operating a 180-acre cattle farm.

Ragsdale said, "I am committed to promoting economic growth and more jobs for this area as well as a stronger Republican Party."

"MORE PEOPLE are coming to realize we are the party of growth,

Dr. Edward Ragsdale

lower taxes and opportunity just as they see the Democratic Party standing for higher taxes and special interests.

"As the second largest metropolitan area in Illinois, we have not received our share of attention from state and national Republican organizations. I will work to correct this situation."

"Committeemen, party workers and contributors will receive more communication and attention. Candidates at all levels will be encouraged and promoted."

"For the past 10 years, I have spent one or two evenings per week helping to build the Republican Party. I would like to continue this effort as state committeeman."

Labor Council will interview candidates

Another screening of candidates in the Granite City School Board election will be held by the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council, AFL-CIO, this Saturday, Oct. 26.

All candidates are invited to attend, Edwin Reiske said. The interviews will take place at the Labor Temple, 2014 State St., from 9 a.m. to noon.

Beware of river sturgeon in area

Dr. Bernard J. Turnock, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, has urged that consumers not eat shovelnose sturgeon taken from the Mississippi River.

Turnock's advisory is based on a survey conducted by the Missouri Conservation Department, which found residues of chlordane in 22 shovelnose sturgeon, averaging 0.788 ppm (part per million).

"These 22 fish exceed the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's tolerance level of 0.30 ppm," Turnock said.

"Although no immediate health effects are known to be associated with the consumption of fish contaminated with chlordane, there may be cumulative, long-term effects."

Mini mall planned in village

By SUSANNE INDELCATO
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — A mini mall is planned for the village by developer Frank Mehlich, former Nameoki Township highway commissioner.

Mehlich presented a subdivided plot to the Village Board of Trustees Tuesday. The plot has been referred to the village engineer.

The proposed mall would be built on the west side of Illinois Route 111, across from the village hall. The property is zoned for business use, officials said.

Mehlich's plot eliminates one parcel from a 40-acre tract. That parcel, Mehlich said, will eventually be used for a dental clinic.

Village board approval of the plot is needed, Mehlich said, so he can begin building the mall.

The board is expected to take action on the plan during an Oct. 29 meeting.

OTHER ACTION
Other matters coming before the Village Board of Trustees Tuesday included:

• Trustee Bob Vincent reported a committee studying the village utility tax has met and is considering a plan to either reduce or eliminate the tax for village senior citizens.

• The Granite City High School Warrior Band was granted permission to set up a roadblock to collect donations for a band trip. The roadblock, on Pontoon Road near Ronnie's Sunoco, is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 9.

Payroll gifts by state workers to aid Africa

State government employees can make payroll contributions to the African Relief Fund now that more than 4,000 workers have signed a petition. Gov. James R. Thompson was joined in making the announcement Oct. 21 by actress Cecily Tyson, a spokesperson for UNICEF, one of five charity organizations that will distribute an estimated $250,000 that state workers may donate. The others include CARE, Project Mercy, Save the Children and World Vision.

Illinois is the only state in the nation with a voluntary payroll deduction program for African relief, part of an effort that involves farmers who can donate their crops for the manufacture of corn-soy-milk to be shipped to victims of the African famine.

Inmates at state prisons are making garments for Africans in a program called "Operation Stitch," which aims to produce 65,000 garments that provide protection from the African sun, and warmth during the cool nights.

People believe in United Way

An especially effective videotape about the Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign features local people describing the programs whose 1986 operating funds depend in part on the success of this fall's fund drive.

Mary Jesse says on camera, "If there weren't a United Way, what would people do? There isn't enough government assistance to do everything that's needed. The United Way has more of a personal interest in the people of the community than government agencies or groups from outside the area."

Leo Schermer notes that "less than 10 percent of the money raised for the United Way goes for administration. It's a worthwhile organization, and a lot of good has come from it."

George Cook of the AFL-CIO Community Services says, "Working people on the production line, in retail stores and in offices support the United Way with their dollars, which are vital to the success of the program. The 15 agencies here fill a wide variety of needs. All offer the types of programs traditionally supported enthusiastically by the American labor movement."

Ron Leubben, a scouting volunteer, says in the videotape, "We have the best program in the world in the Boy Scouts and we want to let as many as possible participate. About 56 percent of our funding comes from the United Way. The majority of people will give if they know what their money is going to be used for, and the United Way can always use more money to enhance its programs. I'm not just talking about the Boy Scouts. I'm talking about all of the programs. If everyone would just loosen up their hearts and their pocketbooks just a little more, this would be a much better world."

Avery Schermer sums up, "As citizens, you can't just sit and take. You've got to give as well. There are no free lunches, no magic wands to wave. We need people to get active, and we need money to make possible the good work of the agencies which we all applaud. That's what the United Way is all about."

Those who have the opportunity to see this video will enjoy it. Efforts are being made to present it to as many organizations as possible.

Persons who have a chance to talk in person with those who volunteer — for such agencies as the YM-C.A., Alcoholics Rehabilitation, Alpha Center for Women, Arthritis Foundation, Association for Retarded Citizens, Red Cross, Protestant Welfare, Catholic Charities, Coordinated Youth Services, Children's Home and Aid Society, Visiting Nurses and Salvation Army — cannot help but be impressed by the work that is done throughout the year. With this awareness, they are finding it easy to decide to pledge their contribution to the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

The reality of the daily help to people in all walks of life — the truth of these important services as outlined in the videotape — make the United Way message clear to Quad-Citians. Contributing to the United Way is not a matter of "giving till it hurts," but of "giving till it feels good."

Views differ on diverting plane

We had an opportunity to hear diplomat George Ball speak in 1968, when it appeared Hubert Humphrey might rally to gain the presidency, with Ball to be his secretary of state. Ball is still active, speaking out yesterday in St. Louis and last night at Southern Illinois University on at Edwardsville.

His remarks are of interest because they help show the sharp contrast in opinions about America's diverting of an Egyptian airliner to nab four terrorists. The four had murdered a U.S. citizen aboard a hijacked Italian cruise ship. After shooting him, they forced crewmen to throw his body and wheelchair into the sea.

Ball said the U.S. is acting like a heavy-handed "cowboy" in taking such actions as intercepting the hijackers. He thinks this is not the way a big power should behave. He says the U.S. is inviting terrorist acts against Americans by remaining friendly with Israel.

Ball is a Democrat, but he does not speak for all in his party. Belleville's Alan Dixon, a Democrat and the senior U.S. senator from Illinois, has been speaking on the Senate floor about Egypt, which at least publicly resents the thwarting of its decision to free the terrorists.

Dixon did a little homework in the past few days and found Congress has authorized a bit of financial aid for Egypt in the October 1985-September 1986 year. The funds authorized but not yet appropriated total an astounding $2,339,118,000. Egypt, it turns out, is the second largest bilateral aid recipient in the U.S. foreign aid program.

Dixon's homework also brought him to two sections of Title 22 of the U.S. Code. One deals with assistance to any country harboring international terrorists, and another outlines termination of assistance to countries which grant sanctuary to international terrorists.

The senator said he and most Illinoisans agree that "when we saw the chance, we did exactly what we should have done. We intercepted the plane, persuaded it to land and saw that the killers were pinched. It wasn't really any different than cop cars chasing down crooks trying to make a getaway. They don't always have time to get a warrant or a legal opinion."

Shortsighted oppression of U.S. farmers

To the Editor:
The conditions of our share croppers, the American farmers, is an open book.

The big land owners not only skim the cream, but also the milk, leaving only dregs. These same people are the political leaders of their areas and dictate the educational curriculum in their states.

Is it any wonder several of our states have a quality of education below that of many depressed European countries? These same educators teach that the income tax is a fair system, despite the fact that it is the second and most salient point in Karl Marx's Communist manifesto.

Throughout Marx's writings he endeavors to prove that a graduated income tax will destroy democracy and capitalism. Why do we tolerate this type of "education"? Winston Churchill, General MacArthur, Clarence Darrow, Aldous Huxley and thousands of profound thinkers have denounced it.

Why do we embrace the rantings of Marx, the equally evil English system originated by William the Conqueror, or the mathematical imbecilities of Keynes when we have the truly American views of Henry George and John Commons in our own libraries?

It seems that when a people are uniformly impoverished, they accept the fact stoically. The Eskimos who live under harsh natural conditions seem to resign themselves to their lot because it is universal to the tribe.

It is only when gigantic fortunes are made from the backs of the farmer and worker, leaving them a mere pittance, that dissatisfaction surfaces. These are the conditions that are ripe for Communism.

Social reform is secured by the awakening of thought and the progress of ideas. When there is correct thought, right action will follow. Power is always in the hands of the masses of men. What oppresses the masses is their own ignorance, their own shortsighted selfishness.

Past city officers seeking posts on board

To the Editor:
On Nov. 5, voters of Madison School District 12 will go to the polls to elect five of the seven candidates to the School Board.

One candidate, incumbent Ed Warchol, has filed for the two years remaining in the unexpired term of the late Sam Dymas.

Four terms will be for four years and six candidates have filed for these four openings; three are incumbents and three filed for the first time.

The incumbents, Billie Bosworth, Ed Dohal and Ed Newsome, have put in many hours of their own time to see that our tax dollars are spent in the most efficient manner so that our children will get the best education available.

The years they have spent on the board and the fact that they have had or have children or grandchildren attending the schools of our district are sure signs they will continue to see that our children get high-quality education.

John Hamm, one of those filing for the first time, also has children in our schools. He is a successful businessman, and has volunteered many hours to the youth football program, Little Rascals. He could be an additional asset to our efficient, quality educational system.

Two of the candidates filing for the first time are members of our past city administration. Former Police Chief Don Bridick and Former Fire Chief and Ambulance Coordinator Mike Macke.

Bridick stated he wants to see that our tax dollars are spent wisely. He mentions nothing about concern for a good education for our children. He has no children attending our schools.

Change in rate limit is to be permanent

To the Editor:
On the matter of the Belleville Area College tax (rate limit) increase, people must realize this is permanent. This is not a bond issue.

We will be paying the rest of our lives or at least as long as we own our own homes.

Bridick said there is a candidate who does not own property in our district. One of the qualifications for filing to be a candidate is that you must be a "resident" of the district. It does not state you must own property.

Macke states he feels he is qualified because of his prior experience in applying for grants. If he knew anything at all about our district, he would know that it is the job of the assistant superintendent and curriculum director to write and apply for grants. The board members have nothing to do with applying for grants. He also has no children attending our schools.

For several years now, the police and fire departments have sponsored a safety program for our schools. For the past two years, Bridick and Macke as chiefs of their departments were to award certificates to the winners of the safety poster program.

Other problems in village

To the Editor:
I have read in the paper about Pontoon Beach checking out health hazards near mobile homes in the village, and about tall weeds near the mobile homes.

If they intend to make these people "walk the line" and keep things up-to-date, why don't they also take a good look when they drive down Kaseberg Lane and do something about it?

A house that blew up last October is still laying everywhere, and weeds have grown up there. On the other side of the street, weeds have grown higher than people's heads.

Change in rate limit is to be permanent

As for repairs to the Granite City school, the state has already agreed to pay for most of it.

Why does BAC need a sports complex? What does sports have to do with education? It is something only the people of Belleville would enjoy, but we would have to pay for it.

These two men showed so much concern for our children they didn't even bother to show up to hand out the awards to the winners from the police and fire departments. Macke even failed to send one of the firemen out to replace him in the program.

Is this the same concern they are going to have for our children if they are elected to the school board?

Are voters of School District 12 going to forget how dissatisfied we were with the way the past city administration was running our city? Are we going to forget about the discrepancies now showing up in our city finance records from the past administration?

Are we going to put into office two members of the past administration to inform us about what is going on with our schools only after it has happened and it is too late for us to do anything about it?

CURTIS E. BOSWORTH
1636 Fourth St., Madison

The home that exploded has a basement standing full of water, creating a hazard for the 3- and 4-year-olds who play nearby and could fall into it.

When we asked about it, they said the house is still under investigation. That is odd. Anybody who wants to stop and take any part they want to can do so.

They should wake up every morning, look at the junk on Kaseberg Lane, and see how it feels. It is time to make people clean up their junk and weeds.

KASEBERG RESIDENT

This sounds like a repeat of the old levee board, where Madison County paid over 50 percent of the tax but 90 percent of the money was spent in St. Clair County.

Statue of Liberty videotape available to schools, groups

The Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp. is making available a specially-prepared 17-minute videotape on the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island to the schools of Granite City.

Company spokesmen said the tape is a part of National Steel's participation in the campaign to help raise funds for restoration of the statue and island.

National Steel will conduct a campaign starting Oct. 28 — the 99th birthday of the statue — that will last through November to raise funds from employees for the restoration effort.

National, including its Granite City division, is matching the employees' gifts dollar for dollar, according to Bill Swanson, vice president and general manager of Granite City Steel.

The videotape documents the early history of the statue and tells of the fund-raising efforts which made it possible, including the pennies and nickels that were raised by school children across the nation to help pay for the base of the statue. It also describes the deterioration of the statue and of Ellis Island which led to the current fund-raising effort.

"The videotape is a dramatic presentation which we believe will mirror the story of the Statue of Liberty and its role in our history much more understandable to any group, adults or students," Swanson said.

55-Alive driving course this week

The 55-Alive Driving course will be available in Granite City. This program is designed to increase the older driver's concern for the normal age-related physical change of vision, hearing, and reaction time, as they affect driving and increase awareness of appropriate technique for driving in today's complex traffic pattern.

It will be in Room 523 at the Granite City Campus, of Belleville Area College, 4950 Maryville Road, on Thursday, Oct. 24, and Friday

Oct. 25, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The cost is $7 per person for the two-day session and may be paid on the first day of class. Only persons 55 years of age or older are eligible.

Most insurance companies will allow a discount on insurance premiums for seniors who have taken the class.

For further information or to register for class, seniors may call the Programs and Services for Older Persons office in Granite City at 678-3223.

General adds Illinois bank, plans merger

Jack W. Minton, chairman and chief executive officer of General Bancshares Corp., a St. Louis based interstate bank holding company, has announced record results for the nine months ended Sept. 30. Consolidated net income totaled $11,415,000 or $3.79 per share. Comparable figures in January-September 1984 were $11,356,000 net income or $3.77 per share.

Consolidated assets reached $2,024,106,000, a 2.20 percent increase over $1,942,480,000 at Sept. 30, a year ago. Deposits, also a record, were $1,665,790,000, up $51,488,000 or 3.19 percent. Net loans of $1,062,470,000 were up 2.70 percent as of Sept. 30, compared to $1,034,560,000. During the third quarter, General Bancshares' acquisition of Hillsboro (Ill.) National Bank was approved by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. The acquisition, with $75 million in assets, will bring GBC's total assets in Illinois to more than $870 million.

Chief events of the quarter were the announcement of merger and signing of a definitive agreement by General Bancshares and Boatman's Bancshares Inc. Progress is being made in the details involved in the merger, which is subject to shareholder and regulatory approvals.

Minton said, "The action to merge is consistent with the movement that is developing toward establishment of larger regional banking organizations as interstate banking restrictions are lifted."

General Bancshares has 50 locations in Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee.

Ghost roles

told in Southern Illinois

By RONALD D. REED

(An address delivered to the Williamson County Historical Society, Marion Carnegie Library, Marion, Ill.)

Form a mental picture of a witch. Now, what are you thinking? Glamorous Samantha of television's Bewitched? A pock-marked, warty, stringy-haired, old hag who always appears in Hansel and Gretel? The satanic witches at Salem, Mass.? Or, Sybil Leek? If you have any of these in mind, each represents a type, kind or variety of witchcraft. There are others. I cannot begin to describe all of them.

Nonetheless, all forms of witchcraft ascribe to the employment of one or more of the unseen forces and demands of the supernatural, sorcery, divining, magic and, more directly, the whole or part of the whole of the occult and/or witchery.

TO PRACTICE true witchcraft, all witches must meet three qualifications:

1. A power source.
2. An instrument or object.
3. The proper, supernaturally potent incantation or formula.

Oh, yes, one other consideration. All witches have limitations. There were certain things they could not do. Example: In Southern Illinois, witches could not cross running water in any of their various forms. In this area, I gather, most were cabin-bound. Maybe, that's how cabin fever started.

BUT THERE IS an escape clause. There always seems to be. A witch could transform a person into something else: a horse, wolf, giant bird, some such, and ride across on its back.

The practice and belief in witchcraft came early to Illinois, long before the English, Scots, Irish or Germans began winding their way through the Appalachian Mountains. Witchcraft was present even before the French arrived. The Indians practiced a form of witchcraft, although they did not call it witchcraft, nor did the French always recognize it as such.

Many, but certainly not all, Indian medicine men derived their powers to cure, or control, from a spirit called a Manitou, which had a dwelling place at some spot. In Southern Illinois and Missouri as well as elsewhere, there were many Manitous.

TO THE FRENCH, Indian witchcraft was simply heathen ways. But when witchcraft was found among their own, or baptized Indians, or slaves, then they were altogether another situation. They were the first in Illinois to attempt an eradication of witchcraft. The French believed all witches were evil and in league with the devil.

John Reynolds, former governor of Illinois, notes in his book, My Own Times, that some were hanged in Cahokia by the French. The French believed all witches were evil and in league with the devil.

William Henry Perrin leaves two brief records showing how much influence the belief in witchcraft had on the French in Cahokia. "Voodooism was one of the miserable superstitions of witchcraft that was largely believed in early times. The distinction between this and the original belief in witches is in the fact that it applies wholly to the negro conjuring."

IN OTHER WORDS, Perrin is saying that voodooism and witchcraft are the same and implies here that punishments and trials were confined to Negroes. That Negroes alone bore the total punishment for the practice of witchcraft is not true, and Perrin contradicts himself later.

An African slave by the name of Moreau was, about the year 1790, hung on a tree, a little south of Cahokia. He was charged with this imaginary crime. He had acknowledged, it is said, that, by his power of devilish incantation, "he had poisoned his master; but that his mistress proved too powerful for his necromancy..."

Also in Cahokia, the record shows, in the same village — ignorantly inspired by a belief in the existence of this dread power of diabolism — another negro's life was offered up to the Moloch of superstition, by being shot down in the public streets. One of the first civil governors of Illinois Territory, Lieutenant Todd, was an order to take a convicted negro to the water's edge, burn him and scatter his ashes to the four winds of heaven, for the crime of voodooism.

TODD WAS A KINSMAN of Mary Todd Lincoln. The water's edge referred to was the Mississippi River. Whether or not the man was executed depends upon your source. Some sources say Todd stayed the execution.

It is safe to say that the belief in witchcraft hung as a pall over the early settlers of Illinois.

What could a Southern Illinois witch do? Remember, some had very limited practices, while others were specialists in the manner of today's physicians. Some were more powerful than others. It is said Eva Locker was so powerful she could bounce a spell clear across the county, and it would ricochet into neighboring counties.

A LOCAL WITCH, depending upon her powers and specialty, could bring strange or incurable diseases on a person; give fits, or shakes; could kill cattle at will; could spell a gun; or could transform people into any of a wide variety of animals.

She could, if the animal-person were large enough, ride him; could milk a cow, without touching the cow; could cause trees to fall and the earth to quake; could turn milk to clabber; could make animals, which would not normally attack a person, attack; could devise love charms and potions; could make snakes to multiply; and could do a number of other destructive or hideous things.

Witches would often transform themselves and others into horses, cats, hares or rabbits, pigs and sometimes into other animals or birds. Most stories which concern transformation seem to me to be with hares or pigs — a few horses here and there, but not many cat-witches in Southern Illinois.

HERE'S A TYPICAL STORY concerning a pig-witch. It comes to us by way of Grace Smith: "There is a story from Eldorado, Ill., about an old woman who found that her cow was being milked every morning by a pig. Her son thought that perhaps the pig was a witch.

"He drew a picture of the pig, nailed it to a tree, and shot it with a silver bullet. A few days later, they learned that an old woman down the road was sick from a gunshot wound. She asked to have the bullet taken from the tree in order that she might get well. When she promised to leave the country, this was done."

"I've wondered what kept the witch from breaking her promise? Also, I might add here, that this same story is told about a pig-witch who came to visit, frequently, an early family living in what is now Carterville. The story is the same, but the details much more numerous, and the pig-witch lived in what is now Energy."

HERE IS A STORY concerning pillow-wreaths. This first one was told to Irene Mach by Mrs. John Becker, both of Belleville, and recorded by Charles Neely. Harry M. Hyatt collected six versions of this same story throughout the Midwest:

Doctors seemed to be at a loss as to just what was troubling Clarence Manners. The child had been ill for a period of five weeks, getting weaker day by day. One day a neighbor came in to see Clarence and told his mother doctors could do the child little good, for he was bewitched.

She suggested they look into the pillow upon which Clarence rested his head. Upon opening the pillow, a wreath formed by the feathers was found. The wreath was not entirely finished, the neighbor explained, and for that reason Clarence was still alive.

AT THE SUGGESTION of the neighbor the wreath was placed on a chair and a rope was used to beat it until it was demolished. The next day an old lady living in the neighborhood was confined to her bed with a bruised body.

Mrs. Manners realized then that it was she who had bewitched her son. Clarence recovered soon after the wreath was destroyed.

Witchcraft and the practice of witchcraft are probably as popular today as at any other time in our history, and for the same reasons as those of the past. People are disillusioned, unable to understand the problems of their times; they are dissatisfied with their own world and its problems. There is a loss of faith in organized religion, and people who are without hope are desperately seeking other means of assurance.

SOME OF THESE disappointed people will simply give up. Others will rebel, and some will find other paths to restore their faith and hopes.

Some will turn to witchcraft in one form or another. It's hard to believe in this age, which gives us Cybernetic computers, landings on the moon, cures for most varieties of leprosy and other diseases, still enables some to believe in witchcraft.

I could say more. There is much more in areas not mentioned.

WITCH HANGINGS were occurring in Cahokia.

I leave you with a thought from author Raymond L. Brown:

"IN SPEAKING of witchcraft in the world today," he says, "many long-term superstitions have been the foundation for present-day beliefs and prejudices."

"Our ancestors were rational, based upon what knowledge they had, in their beliefs concerning good and evil. But, today, ours are totally irrational."

Halloween Calendar

Next Thursday, ghosts, goblins and long-legged beetles will appear here to celebrate Halloween. The streets will be filled with costumed children looking for that trick or treat.

But even before Oct. 31, Quadrillions will start their celebrations of the spooky holiday.

On Saturday, Oct. 26, Granite City Junior Achievement will sponsor its fourth annual "The Patch," featuring games and other attractions from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tickets costing $2.50 each will admit two and will enable visitors to receive a pumpkin.

Group rates are available by calling Norm or Georgia at 876-6065, or Diane at 451-8243. The event will also be held on Sunday, Oct. 27, from noon to 6 p.m.

The Tri-City Area YMCA will host a Halloween party at its building on Saturday from 1:30 to 3 p.m. YMCA members and their children aged 3 to 8 are invited to attend. Partygoers will be judged on their costumes and games will be played.

Granite City Public Library will hold a Halloween party for children, 1st through 6th grades, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the main library. Costumes are encouraged but are not required. Refreshments will be served.

The library will also host Halloween parties for preschool children during storytime on Oct. 31. One party will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the main library and another at 1:30 p.m. at the branch library.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, the Knights of Columbus Ladies Auxiliary will host the second annual Halloween party. The event will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 4225 Old Alton Road. A prize of $100 will be offered for the best costume. Admission is $5 per person, including refreshments.

ENJOY your hometown area's Halloween happenings

The Jaycees will host a Halloween dance Oct. 26 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Jaycee Clubroom, 2054 Edison Ave. A prize will be offered for the best costume. Music will be provided by Mountain Gravy and refreshments and snacks will be provided. Admission price is $4.50 per person or $7 per couple if paid in advance.

Also from 8 p.m. until midnight Saturday, there will be a Halloween dance to benefit the PRCC Dance Troupe. The event, sponsored by St. Stanislaus Lodge, will be held at 826 Greenwood St., Madison. Music will be by the Remede Band and the cost is $3. Costume wearing is optional, but there will be costume judging for those participating.

On Sunday, Oct. 27, Chouteau Township will stage a Halloween party for township children from 2 to 5 p.m. in the township hall, 697 Thorgate drive. Youngsters through the 5th grade level are invited to attend. There will be costume judging.

The 7th and 8th grade classes of St. Margaret Mary Grade School will sponsor a haunted house Monday, Oct. 28, from 5 to 9 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 1900 St. Clair Ave. Admission to the event is 50 cents. There will be treats and fortune telling available for a minimal cost. The public is invited to attend.

On Wednesday, Oct. 30, Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College will show the 1931 movie

Were vampires real?

LOS ANGELES — Werewolves and vampires come from spooky folktales from the Middle Ages. Now a scientist says these mythical creatures of the night may be based on tragic fact: the symptoms and possibly a gruesome self-treatment of a rare genetic disease.

"I suspect it's usually true that many folktales are based on fact," said chemist David Dolphin of the University of British Columbia.

"The folktales that are so deeply ingrained may very well not be entirely products of the imagination."

Dolphin said his hypothesis grew as a minor sidelight to years of research on heme, the iron-based red pigment of blood.

In an interview while at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he said, "The information that I developed and that others were developing sort of slowly came together and I noted these striking similarities to the old folktales."

The theory involves a group of rare inherited diseases called porphyrias, which cripple the body's ability to make heme.

Symptoms include an intense sensitivity to sunlight.

Skin can be roughened and killed to the point that the nose or fingers might be destroyed. The lips and gums become taut and drawn back, making the teeth appear prominent. Hair might grow heavily over much of the body.

Ages would have been received if they only went out at night and when they were seen they would have an animal look about them, being hairy, large of tooth and badly disfigured," Dolphin said.

"Such people might well have been considered werewolves," the mythical monsters that transformed at night from people into wolflike creatures.

Their possible connection to the porphyrias was raised by others several years ago.

But Dolphin goes beyond werewolves to vampires, and there the story gets a bit gruesome.

He contends that vampires, purported in folklore to drink the blood of living humans, "were in fact victims of porphyria trying to alleviate the symptoms of their dreadful disease."

Modern treatment of porphyria often involves injections of heme. This provides the crucial iron compound that victims can't produce.

More importantly, the injections, by providing an oversupply of heme, shut off the victim's faulty system that makes a malformed version of heme and causes the symptoms.

The Middle Ages' equivalent of such injections could have been raw blood, Dolphin said.

"If a large amount of blood were to be drunk then the heme in it, if it passes through the stomach wall to the bloodstream, would serve the same function," he said.

Asked if the notion of ancient disease victims drinking the blood of their living neighbors seemed a bit far-fetched, Dolphin said:

"I don't know about that. I think it would have been rather gruesome and it would have been very unpleasant for both parties. But many more gruesome things were going on in the Middle Ages."

Another bit of spooky lore says the victim of a vampire's bite becomes a vampire. That, too, is possible, Dolphin said.

In some cases of inherited genetic disease, he said, two members of a family may have the same defective gene while only one has physical symptoms.

And in symptomless people with the defective gene, he said, disease can sometimes be triggered by a sudden shock, such as loss of blood.

"Since the porphyrias are genetic, it seems likely, in early times when travel was rare and inbreeding was not, that local pockets of the disease might be rampant," Dolphin said. "The likelihood of one porphyria victim biting another and initiating the disease could have been high."

Dolphin joins a long list of scientists who have used their expertise to explore the basis of myths, seek mental or physical defects that might explain the actions of historic figures or the peculiar work of certain artists, writers and composers.

"You get these little bits of information coming in and you start musing about them," he said. "I don't think it's just scientists."

"I think all human beings are curious about unraveling these mysteries, but scientists are in a position where we can do something about it."

Serving our country

News of Quad-City area servicemen serving in the various branches of the U.S. military includes:

KENNETH KALKA
Marine Lance Corporal Kenneth E. Kalka, 19, a 1984 graduate of Granite City High School, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Subic Bay in the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kalka, 1633 Sycamore Ave., received word of their son's promotion in a letter from Major W. A. LeChapelle, USMC. Kalka earned the promotion by displaying "exceptional knowledge, professionalism and maturity. I am proud to have a Marine of your son's caliber as a member of my command," the officer wrote.

After joining the Marine Corps on Aug. 1, 1984, Kalka completed basic and specialized training at San Diego, Calif.

He left here in January for the Philippine Islands, where he is expected to remain a total of 18 months.

"He calls home once in a while, but he does write us regularly," his mother said this week. Friends may write him at: Lance Corporal Kenneth E. Kalka, Marine Barracks, Co. B, Box 17, FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96654.

DONALD PAYNE
Army Private Donald E. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. (Doris A.) Payne, 112 Briarcliff Drive, has graduated from the U.S. Army power generation equipment repair course at Fort Belvoir, Va.

He is a 1983 graduate of Granite City High School. Payne was taught to maintain and repair electric and hydraulic control systems of mobile power generators in the course.

WILLIAM WALKER
William L. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. (Dorothy M.) Metzger, 2200 Benton St., has been promoted to the rank of staff sergeant in the U. S. Air Force. Walker is a jet engine mechanic with the 81st Component Repair Squadron in England. He is a 1978 graduate of Granite City High School South.

His wife, Linda, is the daughter of retired Air Force Senior Master Sgt. Merwin G. (Charlotte R.) Willman of Schertz, Texas.

LOAN WATSON
Spec. 4 Lon B. Watson, grandson of Byron Glasgow, 105 Lennox Ave., Mitchell, has been decorated with the U. S. Army Commendation Medal in South Korea.

The Army Commendation Medal is awarded to individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Watson is a combat signaller with the 8th U. S. Army. He is a 1982 graduate of Granite City High School North.

RAYMOND RAMIREZ
Marine Sgt. Raymond L. Ramirez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. (Shirley A.) Wilkison, 2439 Edwards St., has graduated from Recruiter's School.

In the seven-week course at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Ramirez was prepared for duty recruiting young men and women for service with the Marine Corps.

He received instruction on in-service training and education programs; the administrative requirements and procedures for enlistments and careers available.

Ramirez also studied public speaking, advertising, community relations and personal interviewing techniques.

A 1977 graduate of Granite City High School South, Ramirez joined the Marine Corps in February 1977.

STEPHANIE WALKER
Army Private Stephanie A. Walker, daughter of Ruth Walker, 208 Broadway, Venice, has completed the army personnel administration specialist course at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

The course was designed to provide a working knowledge of unit administration duties, including files and publications, correspondence procedures, unit personnel actions and basic typing skills.

Walker is a 1984 graduate of Madison High School.

THOMAS KEELIN
Airman Thomas J. Keelin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Keller, 19 Reta Court, has graduated from the U. S. Air Force aircraft maintenance course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Fundamentals of aircraft and servicing one- and two-engine jet aircraft were taught. Instruction also was given in maintenance management and documentation to assess aircraft readiness capability.

A 1985 graduate of Granite City High School, Keelin also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

CHRISTA CRUZ
Army Spec. 4 Christa M. Cruz, daughter of Jean M. Fritz, 4100 Pontoon Road, and James L. Dickerson, 2114 Lynch Ave., has arrived for duty in West Germany.

A storage specialist with the 3rd Armored Division, Cruz was previously assigned at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Social Notes

Moose Lodge 272 has candlelight enrollment

Granite City Moose Lodge 272 celebrated its 75th anniversary with Robert Large, state director from Mooseheart, as guest speaker.

An open house was held, with gifts and refreshments provided to 100. Virgil Singler, administrator of the local lodge, welcomed all at the open house.

Jim Tadlock offered prayer and John Parker spoke on the history of the Moose fraternal organization. The Loyal Order of Moose came into being in 1888 and in 1913 Mooseheart was created 35 miles west of Chicago by James J. Davis. The "child city" was a home and school owned and operated by the Moose for children of deceased members.

In 1922 on the banks of the St. John's River, 15 miles south of Jacksonville, Fla., the order founded the "City of Contentment" for aged members and wives.

Tadlock gave a history of Moose

Lodge 272, which began in 1910. It is the oldest Moose lodge in the district. In early years, lodge meetings were held in members' homes or places of business. Then the lodge bought a three-story building at 19th and State streets.

During the 1930s depression, ownership was lost and the meetings were held in the basement of Peer's Shoe Store. The lodge was regained and was operated until 1967, when the present property at 19th and Adams streets was acquired.

The lodge is purchasing 10 acres of land on Maryville Road to construct a new building in the near future.

The lodge is well known for its annual Halloween parade, sponsored by the Moose for the last 30 years. Members have hung bells for the Salvation Army and have first-place and second-place trophies for this fund-raising project.

Years ago, the Moose also sponsored annual children's pet parades. They donate annually to the Cancer Fund, March of Dimes, Kidney Foundation, Muscular Dystrophy and many other causes. The lodge also has sponsored the Roca young men's club and youngsters' football, baseball, bowling, square dancing and skating parties. For the last 15 years at Wilson Park, the lodge has sponsored a lemonade stand.

The organization has three degrees of merit, Legion of the Moose and then the Fellowship Degree, which must be earned by outstanding work and support of the lodge. The third is the Pilgrim Degree, sought by many and attained by few. The lodge has two Pilgrims, Virgil Singler and Edward Chastain.

The Women of the Moose is an auxiliary of the Loyal Order of Moose. Granite City has Chapter 247, which has been active in many projects. Three degrees are the Academy of Friendship, College of Regents and Star Recorder Degree; the chapter has five in the latter degree.

The governor of the lodge, Bill Hubert, introduced the Pilgrims present. Fellowship members totaling 25 were recognized and lodge officers were introduced.

Senior Regent Pat Macke presented chapter officers, and the College of Regents was recognized. State Director Bob Large was presented and spoke on "The Importance of Membership" and working together in harmony.

Administrator Virgil Singler presented past governor Robert W. Cox with a 50-year pin.

Robert Thompson was presented a "C" pin, earned for collecting delinquent dues. As a conservation award, he received a pewter moose statue.

Also introduced were Walter Spier, a Southern Illinois official from Cahokia, Fred May, membership chairman for districts 9 and 10, Elmer Dintelmann, executive board member of the Illinois Moose Association, Kurt Condon, District 10 president, and past deputy grand regent Marge Spier.

A dance was held, with music by the Howard Mason Band.

Psalm 126:5 "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy."

There are very few of us who do not understand the law of sowing and reaping. We plant seeds in the ground and we reap a harvest. Of course, we understand that we must water, fertilize, and have patience until harvest time. There are not many things which we sow and expect to reap in a single day.

However, there is something very different and very exciting in this Scripture. We know if we plant both, we harvest corn. Plant wheat, harvest wheat. Whatever we sow, we reap. Except here we sow tears, and harvest joy! For whatever purpose those tears are shed, for however many tears were shed, the harvest is going to be joy!

God has the power to turn tears to joy. He will do it for you. All things work for good to them who love the Lord.

Give your love to God. Today.

Stars battle and 'almost' beat Meramec JuCo

By GARY KING
Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — Almost. That was the key word for the Granite City Campus soccer team on Tuesday afternoon.

The Stars played a perfect defensive game. They "almost" shut out the Meramec team. And, on several occasions, they "almost" scored.

Unfortunately, they accomplished none of the above as they fell to Meramec by a score of 1-0.

It wasn't that the Stars lost, it was how they played the game that pleased GCC coach Larry Petri.

"I think the effort was definitely there, we've just been down the past few games. I was very pleased with the team effort we exhibited, the guys held their composure and kept playing hard."

"It was a game of streaks, neither team had the clear-cut advantage over the other team. Meramec has a good team, and I think it was a good game for us, win or lose," said Petri.

The first half of the contest was evenly played as both teams displayed outstanding defense. However, with 5:58 remaining in the half Meramec's Tom Warnack stole a Stars' pass and blasted a shot past GCC goalie Jeff Lantz for the only score of the game.

The Stars had several chances to tie the match in the second half, but were unable to convert.

GCC's best opportunity came with just over 13 minutes remaining to be played, as forward Tony McFarlin lifted a shot from 20 yards out which was deflected by the diving Meramec keeper.

Moments later, with 7:23 left on the clock, GCC forward Doug Smith booted a corner kick which carried into the area of the goalmouth. Team member Tim Clucas headed the shot in the direction of the Meramec goal, but the ball sailed over the crossbar.

ALTHOUGH he allowed the only goal of the day, Stars keeper Jeff Lantz was superb in the net. Lantz thwarted many of Meramec's threats with diving saves of close range shots. One of which was a sprawling stop of a blast from Meramec's Warnack late in the contest.

One of the many bright spots in the match was the Stars' aggressive style of play. In fact, GCC's aggressive cost them a total of 30 fouls during the course of the game.

Petri thinks that his squad's high number of fouls is indicative of their style of play.

"THE GUYS play hard, and they don't back down from any situation. We're not the kind of team who is afraid of contact, and I think that showed today. For some reason it seems that we get called for a lot of fouls where ever we play," said Petri.

Petri also noted improvement in the areas of ball control and on-field communication during the match.

"We showed some creativity out there today, which is something that we've been lacking. I thought our communication on the field improved, and we showed better ball control than we have been lately," said Petri.

The Stars, who fell to 8-8-3 with the loss, are scheduled to face University of Missouri at St. Louis on Sunday. Action is to begin at 2 p.m.

SCORING
Meramec: 39-02 Warnack (unassisted)
SHOTS: GCC 11, MER 15
SAVES: GCC 10, MER 7
FOULS: GCC 30, MER 17
CORNER KICKS: GCC 1, MER 7

STRATEGY SESSION. Granite City Campus soccer coach Larry Petri may have been any situation "shoo" a pesky bug. During Tuesday's junior college soccer game with Meramec, but the Stars couldn't dispose of Warriors as easily. The Stars did a lot of things right during the contest, but still came up short, losing 1-0. Standing to Petri's right is Tim Clucas, a forward.

Homecoming Game GCH looks to keep momentum

By GREGG OCHOA
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Warriors assume the role of spoilers this Friday when they host Belleville East in the final prep football game of the year.

The Southwestern Conference game kicks-off at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium. It's Homecoming and Senior Night.

Granite City (3-4) has won two in a row and three of its last four games. Belleville East is 5-3 and is hoping a victory Friday will earn them a berth in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) playoffs.

THE WARRIORS, meanwhile, stunned Alton a week ago throwing the Redbirds' post-season hopes astray. Alton (6-2) needs a win over Belleville West to keep any dreams of post-season alive.

Including All-World East St. Louis, that's three teams in the Southwestern Conference who could get post season berths. East Side is already in, having won the SWC title for the third straight year.

Granite City has strung its victories together by playing good defense.

"I think the last two ball games definitely helped our defense's confidence," said Granite City coach Ron Yates.

THE WARRIORS keyed on high-powered running back Tony Herd, who managed two TDs, but after that the Warriors roughed him up.

"All year long we have been teaching containment on defense," Yates said. "Finally, they started listening to what we were saying."

"And, we've started being more aggressive and doing more hitting," Yates called last week's victory "the biggest win a Granite City football team has had in years."

However, the Warrior coach is careful to guard against a possible letdown.

"WE WORKED them hard (this week)," Yates said. "We are trying not to let that happen. Alton had had letdown after playing East Side."

After being dismantled by East Side, Alton was down and the Warriors pumped them. Granite City continued its ground assault, piling up 225 yards rushing.

Dave Tatum had a big night; 20 carries for 110 yards. He also scored on a 62-yard run. Tatum has now gained over 100 yards in each of Granite City's last two games. Tatum also has surpassed the 100-yard barrier in three of the six games he has played.

"YOU HAVE got to give credit to the offensive line," Yates said. "because we have been running the ball well all year."

But the Lancers should be primed. They have momentum after beating Belleville West to win the mythical "Belleville City championship."

"No doubt this is an important game for us, for a couple of reasons. A victory not only gives us an outside shot at the playoffs, but it is important in the conference (standings) as well," said East coach Mike McGinnis.

THE LANCERS rely heavily on running back Randy Schmitt, a junior who has gained almost 600 yards this season. Quarterback Ed Rust has passed for more than 500 yards this season.

"He's really been the catalyst this year," McGinnis said.

Tonight Warriors meet Marquette to decide regional soccer champ

By GREGG OCHOA

ALTON — Gene Baker, the Granite City High School soccer coach, is looking at a two-week season right now.

A win is sudden life. A loss and the season is over.

Granite City (16-2-4) will seek yet another regional crown Thursday in the school's storied soccer history.

The Warriors will face Alton Marquette. The Explorers are seeded No. 1 and carry a 17-0-2 record into the match.

"There's really no advantage," Marquette coach Mike Velloff said of the seedings.

"The only difference is that we are playing there instead of here."

"We were even during the regular season but there has been a lot of teams in between," Velloff said. "We will have to play better than we did before to come out of this match."

The teams played one time during the regular season. The game ended in a 2-2 draw. Marquette's other tie was with Quincy Notre Dame, last year's state runner-up. Granite City beat the Raiders the only time the teams met this year.

"We feel we didn't play that well the first game," Baker said. "We made too many mistakes, mistakes that you can't make this time of year."

THURSDAY's game, which begins at 7 p.m. at Alton's Gordon Moore Park, will mark the first time both schools have played for a regional title. The schools, however, have met two other times in regional play.

Granite City, however, holds a 3-0 lead in the post-season action against Marquette. In 1982, both schools met in the sectional. The Warriors won that game 2-0.

Granite City is coming off an emotional win over Alton Monday night. The Warriors won 2-1 on penalty kicks.

"We can't let down," Baker said. "we are taking the approach that we want to play for two more weeks and kids attitude has been real well."

ASIDE FROM the regional game, Granite City will meet St. Louis University High School at 4:15 p.m. in Busch Stadium in one of two pre previews to the Bronze Boot game Friday, Oct. 26.

Baker admitted, "If we win (Thursday), we have to play again Saturday."

Marquette enters the championship game after rolling over Wood River 5-0. It was the Explorers' 14th shutout this season.

"We played good defense all year," said Velloff, a teacher Granite City's Prather junior high school. "And we are going to continue that Thursday."

AS GOOD as the Explorers defense was this season, Marquette can also score. Tom Stone (22 goals) and Tom Noll (21 goals) lead the Explorer attack.

"Their offense concerns me more than their defense," Baker said. "The Warriors hope to pressure Marquette goalie Phil Zervas, who had to make just three saves in the regional win over Wood River."

"We are trying to get more movement off the ball," Baker said. "But we really haven't launched that much of an attack."

The spotty offense production is of minor concern to Baker compared to the condition of sweeper Joe Gray.

GRAY WAS injured against Alton when he was kicked in the foot. His status is questionable, Baker said.

Marquette, soccer's version of Rodney Dangerfield this year, has posted its undefeated mark quietly.

"You never hear a lot about it," Velloff said of the media publicity. "To me that's fine. I don't know how the kids feel."

Records aside, both coaches no that this time of the year, statistics are about as functional as a snowball in...

"All I know is if we don't play well we are going to be watching the next match instead of playing," Velloff said.

Ochoa New Sports Editor Gerstenecker leaves sports staff

GRANITE CITY — Alan L. Gerstenecker, executive sports editor of the Granite City Press-Record/Journal, is leaving the newspaper to become the assistant sports editor of the Belleville News-Democrat, a daily.

Gerstenecker, 28, will be succeeded at his post at the Press-Record/Journal by Gregg Ochoa, 27, formerly the Journal sports editor. Before serving in his current position at the newspaper, Gerstenecker was the sports editor of the Granite City Press-Record, a position he has held since Feb. 14, 1982.

"I think it's a good move for me," Gerstenecker said. "The Press-Record and the Journal people have been very good to me during my time here, but, simply, it's a promotion for me. It's time to move on."

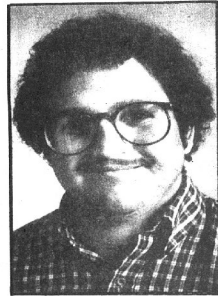

While Gerstenecker's decision to leave the local newspaper was made nearly two weeks ago, the decision was not an easy one.

"I'm excited about the move, but, I leave with some regrets. I've met some very, very fine people here in Granite City. People ranging from co-workers to coaches and athletes," Gerstenecker said.

"Granite City is a fine sports town," Gerstenecker said. "It's people here are a competitive group as you'll meet. They're winners."

While Ochoa will assume the executive sports editor's position, Dave Whaley, who formerly covered Unit

District Nine board meetings, will fill the sports vacancy left by Ochoa's movement.

Gerstenecker's last day at the Press-Record/Journal is Friday.

Warriors Meet SLUH Bronze Boot game is Friday; Warriors to play early game

EDWARDSVILLE — Their records may not show it, but it will be a battle of two of the hottest soccer teams in the country Friday at 7:45 p.m. when Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville squares off against St. Louis University in the 15th Annual Bronze Boot game at Busch Stadium.

The Cougars, who have won their last four games and have pushed their record to 9-6, will take on the Billikens, winners of their last five games and sporting an 8-5-2 record.

THE BRONZE Boot game will follow two high school preliminary contests. The first game is scheduled to get underway at 4:15 p.m. when Granite City takes on St. Louis University High School. At 6 p.m., Christian Brothers College High will play DeSmet.

While both SIUE and SLU appear to have climbed back into the picture for a bid to the NCAA-I Midwest Regional Tournament with their recent winning streaks, the loser of the Bronze Boot will be eliminated.

According to SIUE Coach Bob Guetler, "At this point of the season every game is important, but we know that a loss Friday would probably end any chances we have of getting into the tournament."

WHILE THE Cougars are still clinging to hopes of their first berth in the national tournament in three years, they will also be hoping to prevent the Billikens from becoming the first team in the 15-year history of the Bronze Boot series to win three games in a row.

Overall, the Billikens hold an 8-5-1 series advantage in the annual rivalry which dates back to 1971. Last year, SLU posted a 1-0 overtime victory.

The Cougars extended their winning streak to four games last weekend with a 1-0 upset over nationally-ranked University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and a 10-0 win over the University of Illinois-Chicago.

Mike England, the SIUE goalkeeper, lowered his goals allowed average to just 1.20 per game, while allowing just four goals in his last five games.

John Stone has also taken over the team scoring leadership. With his four goals against Illinois-Chicago, the junior from Alton has pushed in nine goals and has four assists.

Of Emotion And Sports

A farewell and thanks to GC sports

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

Executive Sports Editor

"I always turn to the sports page first. The sports page record people's accomplishments; the front page nothing but man's failure."

Former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren.

I suppose that one quote best describes my love for sports—the reason I'm such a sports fanatic.

Nowadays you can't pick up a paper without reading about bombings in Beirut, a murder aboard a ship in the Mediterranean or the hijacking of a plane.

There's an awful lot of cynicism out there. Sports helps to relieve the burden of the world, I think. Sure, the relief may be just momentarily, but it is relief just the same.

It provides a time when you can forget about your problems and those of the world and indulge in a friendly game, whether it be on the field or from the comfort of your favorite chair. And, isn't that the original intention of sports? ... Leisure time away from it all.

Sports, I love them.

That's what has made my time at this fine newspaper so rewarding for me. The memories. The memories of all those games. There were some victories, but also there were some memorable losses. But even in those losses there were positive aspects. Points of interest that the coaches termed as "learning experiences." I think that's probably what Warren meant by his quote. Something like, winning without real ly winning. Or learning from a loss.

Among the best memories was the Warriors 1982 state soccer championship. Wow, what a weekend. It was also probably one of the coldest weekends I've ever spent in my life.

At New Trier High School, just a few miles from the "Windy City" and near enough that the frigid winds from Lake Michigan can still find you, the Warriors won their most recent state soccer tournament.

There were the happy faces of Tony Segobiano, John Menendez, Barry Grote, Fritz Brewer and Nathan Crane, who scored two goals in the championship game. I'll never forget their jubilation and the thrill it was for me just to cover the game.

Truly one of my most memorable experiences. Or how about Steve Smith, that Granite City High School North 119 pounder who finished third in the state tournament in 1982.

Unseeded going in, Smith battled his way to the end and came away with the third-place medal. A gutsy performance if there ever was one. Sort of like Jeff Blatnick's victory in the 1984 Olympic Games.

No wrestler from Granite City has finished higher since Smith's earned that finish.

Speaking of wrestling, it can't be mentioned in Granite City without bringing up the name of Bill "Red" Schmitt. Schmitt and wrestling in Granite City were synonymous for three decades.

My most memorable moments of Schmitt and Granite City wrestling came last winter, in Schmitt's final season. There were two points.

First, when the Warriors won the Collinsville Regional. It was Schmitt's 25th title. I can't think of a more fitting end to such an illustrious career. And, as for Schmitt, who seldom showed much emotion, he was visibly moved.

The other moment was just after Schmitt coached his last wrestler, Jeff Cotter, in the state wrestling tournament. Schmitt and Cotter stood in the concrete corridor of the University of Illinois Assembly Hall after Cotter clinched sixth place. They stood close, cherishing the moment. Little was said, but then little or nothing had to be said.

You could see the years of coaching in Schmitt's eyes and the disappointment in Cotter's. The 98-pounder seemed to be saying, "Sure wish I could have won it for you, coach."

I wrote a column about those moments. It was obvious they were special to those two and it was special to me. One of those moments in sports that only comes around once in a long, long while.

Too, as I leave this newspaper, I have to say that I think that column was probably my best work. And, by the same token, it was probably the easiest to write.

You hear it all the time. It wrote itself. Well, this one truly did. The emotions, the scene, it was all there. I just put it to words.

Emotion. That's what sports is all about. The jubilation. The distress. The ecstasy. The agony. The memories.

Thanks Granite City, for all of the memories.

Setting the record straight

His voice was more patient than angry. He just wanted to set the record straight.

And, he was right and we are glad to correct the mistake in the cutlines under a photograph we carried in the Oct. 9 issue of the Granite City Journal.

It was a picture of former Granite City High basketball coach, Andy Sullivan, who had just been honored in Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, for his great athletic stardom in football, basketball, baseball and track for the Eastern Illinois U. Panthers during his undergraduate days during the 1940's.

The photo showed Sullivan with the plaque presented to him during the intermission of an Eastern football game late in September.

So far, so good. But, as our caller pointed out, it wasn't for the reason given in the cutlines, to wit: "to Andy Sullivan (who) led Granite City High to its only Illinois state basketball championship in 1940."

The ceremony served to elevate Sullivan and nine other former Eastern Illinois U. former athletes to the Panthers' "Athletic Hall of Fame."

The caller, Charlie Jones, as I said, never lost his "cool" and patiently explained that the 1940 Granite City High state basketball champions was captained and led by an Andy, alright, but his name was Andy Phillip, Phillip and his teammate, Evon Parsaglian, were the state champions. And, like Jones, both were from West Granite, which has produced so many brilliant and outstanding athletes down through the years.

The coach of the 1940 Warrior cage team was the late Byron Bozarth who, at the urging of his assistant, Len Davis, talked Phillip and his buddies to come out for the Granite City High team.

Andy Sullivan did, in fact, produce one of the greatest Granite City High

Sports of all Sorts

By Al Barnes

basketball teams, the one paced by Rich Williams, who later went on to college greatness as an All-American at Bradley U., up at Peoria, and helped the Braves win the NIT tournament at Madison Square Garden in New York City his senior year. Rich and his wife, Linda (Toburen), still live in Granite City.

Charlie, we are sorry for the mistake. The photo was furnished us by the publicity office at Eastern and the mistake was made by that office. In the rush to make the deadline the mistake eluded us.

As mentioned, Jones wasn't mad, but simply wanted to give the credit to the right guys, all Lincoln Place guys like he and his wife, Dortheo (Methews), who were school mates from grade school on up; she living on Illinois and he on Logan.

A retired bricklayer, Jones was no slouch as an athlete, himself, running the 880 and the high hurdles.

And, he pointed out, "that team Sullivan had with Rich Williams was one of the best we've ever had. But, perhaps, if they'd got a second shot at the championship run as Andy Phillip and his teammates did in 1940, they might have done it, too."

Jones was referring to the oddity in state high school basketball laws that year (1940), that permitted a team to lose one game and then go on and play on.

Jones has a number of former great athletes who performed for Granite City High: John Tarpoft, a great lineman down at Missouri; Emmett (Mut) Rensing, backfield at St. Louis U.; Salty Parker and Dick Yates, co-captains of the 1936, '37 and '38 basketball teams; Dave Morgan, football; Ebbie Mueller, a "great-running back," and a great wrestler, John Bell.

A little sadly, Jones told me, or rather, reminded me of what happened to the 1939 Granite City High School basketball team, which, as I remembered it, since I "covered" both the 1939 and 1940 state high school basketball Sweet Sixteen tournaments at Urbana-Champaign, was an outstanding team, too.

The 1939 Warrior cageers were led by Cam and Buskirk, whose son, John was also a great basketball, as well as tennis, player for Granite City High.

Granite City met Streator in a first-round game at Huff Gym up at Illinois University and rushed out to a 15-0 lead only to lose the game by one point at the whistle.

Yes, we are sorry, Charlie Jones, but thanks for the memories you have shared with us.

SEMC runs

on Oct. 26

GRANITE CITY — St. Elizabeth Medical Center is sponsoring two runs, of one and five miles, on Saturday, Oct. 26.

Early registration fee is $5 for both races, and $6 if registering on the day of the race. Race-day registration begins at 7 a.m. in Kaender's Pavilion of the hospital.

Individuals can pick up race packets and run T-shirts in the lobby between noon and 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 25, or between between 7 and 8:30 a.m. on the day of the race.

Runners entered in the five-mile race will begin in front of the medical center on Madison Ave. at 9 a.m. The one-mile run will begin at 9:15 a.m.

Proceeds from the run will be donated to the Better Breathers Club.

DOC approves crossbow hunting for handicapped

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. James R. Thompson signed House Bill 2450 into law recently, enabling handicapped persons to hunt white-tailed deer with a crossbow during the archery deer hunting season. Hunters must still purchase an archery deer hunting permit.

Sportsmen having a physical impairment due to injury or disease, congenital or acquired, which renders them so disabled as to be unable to move without the aid of crutches or a wheelchair, or any upper limb amputees with one hand or more missing, will be eligible to hunt deer with a crossbow.

Like Granite City, East is coming off a big victory. So, McGinnis is cautious about Friday's game.

"Anytime you come off an emotional game, and the one with West was just that, you have to worry about a letdown," McGinnis said.

"WHAT we are banking on is the other incentives (playoffs). There is enough at stake to keep the kids up."

Granite City won last year's meeting 7-4 as East played sloppy.

"We have had problems with them in the past," McGinnis said of Granite City. "We were able to move the ball well but we had a lot of turnovers."

McGinnis sees a Granite City team that is much improved.

"We have a lot of respect for them. I know their record may not show it but they have played some pretty good football this season."

While the Warriors are healthy, East will be without left cornerback Steve Walters (respiratory infection). He started six games for the Lancers.

The flu bug has also bitten East's camp. "We had about six guys miss a couple days of practice this week. We are a little concerned about that," McGinnis said.

With the resurgence of the Granite City defense, McGinnis expects a "pretty close and physical game."

"They have got something at stake, too," McGinnis. "They are

Garden pilgrimage and nature walk

Cloverview Garden Club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Meikamp at their country home in Greenville for the annual garden pilgrimage and nature walk.

Attending were Mrs. Clarence Etheridge, Mrs. Charles Gandoria, Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. George Knapp, Mrs. B.C. O'Neill, Mrs. Mike Mibu and Mrs. Ray Williams. The husbands were guests, and others attending were Mr. and Mrs. William Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kozien.

Covered dishes were brought by the members and Meikamp had charge of the grilled barbecue.

Following the luncheon, President Williamson opened a business meeting, with Mrs. O'Neill giving the club report.

Announcements included President Council Day on Oct. 24 at the VFW Hall in Trenton, where recognition will be given to club presidents and past directors of District Five. Each garden club in the district will participate and bring artistic arrangements and horticulture specimens to be judged.

On Oct. 28, District Five will have an all-day workshop at the Holiday Shores clubhouse near Edwardsville. The day will be spent making pressed flowers for the National Garden Clubs convention to be held in Chicago in May 1986.

A group discussion on plants suitable for a patio was held and Mrs. Meikamp conducted the members on a tour of the grounds and wooded areas, where they gathered colored foliage, acorns, nuts and wildflowers to be pressed for the district workshop. The men spent the afternoon fishing in the private lake.

The November meeting will be held at Ervay's Restaurant, with Mrs. O'Neill as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Small

Small-Schwager

Miss Sally S. Schwager, daughter of Mrs. Betty J. Schwager, 6 Manor Drive, Collinsville, and of the late George N. Schwager, and Jack R. Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Nancy) Small, 3211 Kilarney Drive, were united in marriage Aug. 31 at St. Stephen Church in Caseyville.

John Schwager, brother of the bride, escorted her to the altar, where the Rev. James Blazine officiated at the 7 o'clock evening service.

Sue Busekrus, organist, accompanied Carol Schwager, who sang several selections. A reception was held in Voight Hall following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds are residing at 1003 Seventh St., Dodge City, Kan.

Matron of honor Cindy Malassa of Cypress, Texas, a sister of the bride, served with bridesmaids Peggy Montant of Houston, Texas, Eileen Prohaska of Kansas City, Kan., and Melanie Schwager of Sarasota, Fla., a niece of the bride.

Sara Schwager and Lisa Hasty, a niece of the bride and groom, respectively, were flower girls and the ring bearer was Casey Schwager, a nephew of the bride.

The groom chose his brother, Jim Small, as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included John Hill, Dodge City, Tony Burich, St. Louis, Charles Fahus and Don Hasty, both of Granite City, and Tom Schwager of Natchez, Miss.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High School in 1973. The bride graduated from the University of Missouri at Rolla in 1976 with a bachelor of science degree in petroleum engineering. She is employed as an environmental technician of the Kansas Department of Health and Environment.

The groom received a bachelor of arts degree in business administration in 1977 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He is working as a traffic manager for Excel Beef Packers Inc.

GC Professional Women attend fall district meet

Nine members of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club attended the fall meeting of District XIV held at Derrick's Restaurant in Nashville, Ill.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Aina Holland of Chicago, past state president and currently serving as Illinois Federation Networking chairman.

Holland said that network is a team whose primary purpose is to provide support, information and business opportunities to its membership, depending on their needs.

She continued, "Networking is self-granting permission to have one's needs met" and the basic tool for networking is the business card.

She also discussed the formal, informal, horizontal and vertical types of networking and said there are three important things to remember in the process: visibility, familiarity and image. The speaker suggested all BPW members read Carol Clute's book on networking which is in the local library.

The Washington County BPW organization was host for the meeting and special music was furnished by Carmen Droegge, vocalist. Her accompanist was Judy Cahill from Nashville.

Mary Lou Malwitz, district director from Collinsville, conducted the business session and asked for reports from officers, standing committee chairman and club presidents in the district.

Lili Marzluft, second associate director, presented the by-laws for discussion and subsequent approval by the membership. District policies and procedures, presented by Mary Rotman of Highland, were also presented and approved.

Malwitz announced the Young Careerist and Individual Development Course Speak-Out, would be held at Our Lady of Snows, Belleville, on Feb. 16 at 1 p.m.

The Alton BPW organization will host the Spring District meeting in March, it was noted.

Attending were Becky Slate, club president, Annellen Smith, Jeannie Hornberger, Hazel Rollins, Rose Stern, Lorene Sadrukula, Sunshine Serugs, Pauline Weir and Marzluff.

Marshall PTA plans projects

Members of Marshall School PTA agreed to participate in an RIF walk as their first fund-raising project for the school year.

Suggested projects include playground equipment, rainy day games, fans in the cafeteria and classrooms, a curtain in the gym, newspapers, Helping Hand, child abuse prevention field trips, patrols' trip and the Reading Is Fun program.

New officers are Emil Klug, president, Joan Stark vice president, Jana Boring treasurer and Carol Klug, secretary. Also introduced was Richard Brinkhoff, a school district administrator.

Memberships for 46 were accepted and other parents are being encouraged to join.

DAR Chapter hears district director

Miss Luanne Johnson, Division VI director, presented the program at a meeting of Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held at Burns Cafeteria.

She stressed the three objectives of the organization, education, history and patriotism. Miss Johnson discussed DAR publications available to keep members informed, and noted a statewide project in April will be the planting of white oak seedlings, the Illinois state tree.

The division director also reported on an Illinois wildflower quilt, a junior member project, with each chapter taking part.

The business meeting was opened by Regent Sandra Wilkinson, followed by prayer for the U.S. by Georgia Englike. Joyce Taff presented a national defense report, "No School Aid for Draft Evaders." Florence Woodward presented the mineral minute, information on minerals found in this state.

Centennial committee chairman Barbara Williams reminded the members of the DAR centennial which will begin Oct. 11, 1990. Chapters are working on plans and projects for the event.

Mrs. Wilkinson presented a list of members running for state offices. Included is Miss Johnson, a candidate for state treasurer.

Also attending were Janet Wilson, Emma Schoen, Alline Patterson, Jane Vanshier, Margaret Bell, Ethel Beeler, Florence Simpson, Linda Koenig, Millie McCormick and Mae McCormick.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson parents of daughter

Mr. and Mrs. James (Julie) Wilson, 1732 Sycamore Ave., became the parents of a girl Oct. 8 at St. John's Mercy Medical Center.

The infant has been named Kelly Sue and weighed 6 pounds, 6 ounces.

Q: What the difference is between a certified check and a cashier's check. I've never used either, but you never know when the information might come in handy.

A: A cashier's check is the bank's check, drawn by the bank itself. If you have the need to pay for something with a cashier's check you will give the bank money in the amount you need and the bank will issue a check, payable to the company or person who is to receive the check. On the other hand, a certified check is your check, specifically earmarking funds from your account to cover the check. Obviously, both certified and cashier's checks are the safest means of receiving funds, and are often utilized in the cash purchase of major items — an automobile or a large down payment on a house, for example. As a general rule, you can stop payment on a certified check (which is your check), but not on a cashier's check.

President Vincine Zerlan presented each guest with a gift. Yard party and carnival chairman Carol Hill thanked members for making the recent event a success.

Calvary Baptist plans revival

A community prayer meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 25, at Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave., featuring the Rev. Bernard Campbell as guest evangelist.

The service will precede a fall revival starting Sunday, Oct. 27, and continuing through Nov. 3, with services each night at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Campbell is pastor of the Atlantic Baptist Church in Margate, Fla. Serving as guest music director is Buddy Craft of Orchid Baptist Church in Memphis, Tenn.

A nursery will be provided and the services are open to the public.

Second child arrives for Mr. & Mrs. Pare

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Pare of Omaha, Neb., became parents of their second child, a son, Oct. 12 at the Midland Community Hospital, Papillion, Neb.

The infant has been named Tyler Nathaniel. He weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces, and has one brother, Philip Alan, three years old.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chapline are the maternal grandparents and Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Pare are the paternal grandparents, all residing in Granite City.

GUEST SPEAKER. Don Kassing, left, president of the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, with Becky Slate, president of the Granite City Business and Professional Women. Kassing spoke on the tax referendum to be on the Nov. 5 ballot, at a dinner meeting of the organization at Charlie's Restaurant.

Tax referendum is BPW program topic

Don Kassing, president of the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, was guest speaker at a Granite City Business and Professional Women's dinner at Charlie's Restaurant.

Rose Harris, legislation chairperson, introduced Kassing who spoke on the Nov. 5 BAC tax referendum. He used a slide presentation with his talk.

More than half of all the new tax dollars — 53 percent — would go to the Granite City Campus, Kassing said, helping establish GCC as a full-service community college campus and industrial training center. He said this could aid in attracting new industry and jobs.

A $6.5 million renovation of the former Granite City High School North building would make it a "high-tech" instructional center, Kassing said.

The annual operating budget for GCC is to increase by $1.2 million or approximately 60 percent, the group was told. New programs and new services are planned here.

The average homeowner — the one with a $60,000 home assessed at $20,000 — would pay $21 more a year or $1.75 per month, he said.

GCC has begun to work with industry to tailor training programs to their needs. An industrial training coordinator has been hired to work with industry leaders, Kassing said, adding:

"By supporting this referendum, we'll be able to expand and thoroughly develop and equip our high tech training laboratories. Construction projects included in this tax package will provide jobs, and as GCC becomes a full-service campus more staff will be needed."

"North High was built 12 years ago and needs repairs. It's time for a new roof, new energy-saving heating and cooling equipment, and improved accessibility for the handicapped. The building is now a college campus and the space needs to be adapted to meet the needs, such as electric and air-conditioning systems, which also will require under-the-floor wiring. The furnishings are from the former high school's inventory and some are incomplete and worn out."

"Renovation will give GCC a new identity, which is essential to a college's long-term success. This renovation also will be a big boost for the construction industry and job market."

"In conclusion, GCC's success has outdistanced the most optimistic predictions. After just two years, the campus has more than 2,200 students. There's been a 30 percent increase in full-time day students."

"Before GCC opened, 10 percent of high school graduates from the Granite City area were attending Belleville Area College. That has increased to 25 percent. GCC makes it convenient and cost-effective to attend college."

Dolores Allen, a BPW member, gave an orientation on the BPW emblem. An induction ceremony for five new members was conducted by Rose Stern, membership co-chairman. Corsages and BPW packets were presented by their sponsors.

The new members and their sponsors are: Lisa Fanning and Pat Box, sponsored by Emylee Alford, Pat Ruth Ruland, sponsored by Janet Mills, and Lisa Jones, student member, sponsored by Precursor Becky Jones. Lisa is one of two student members in the Illinois Federation.

Becky Slate, president, conducted the business meeting and made announcements.

A style show committee met at Van Stuart's home, and a bylaws committee meeting is set for Helene Bischoff's home Oct. 29. All standing committee chairmen are to attend a Nov. 7 President Council meeting at Roulston's, Collinsville, where the program will be on "Writing of Year-End Reports."

The next state function will be an area meeting held in Kapskape in October 1986. Membership chairman JoAnn Pritchard noted that the third of the degree will be conferred on Mrs. Crawford Oct. 28, followed by a Halloween party.

Granite Chapter 650 fetes 25-year member

Order of Eastern Star Granite Chapter 650 honored Walter Blankenship, a 25-year member, Friday evening at a regular stated meeting. Worthy Matron Wanda MacDonough invited Blankenship to be a guest in the East for the evening.

Two grand lecturers, Arline Fox, emeritus, and Hazel Wood were escorted and introduced. Five past matrons and four past patrons were escorted and introduced. Mary Ellen Lewis was guest of honor in the East for the evening.

A communication from the new worthy grand matron of Illinois, Nancy D. Wright, was read and invitations were extended to the receptions of state officers.

A report on the grand chapter session, "World of Love," held at the Springfield Convention Center, was given by Worthy Matron Wanda MacDonough. Included in the report were the appointments of Elmor Tomlin as worthy grand lecturer, Forrest Strickler for the general grand chapter and Evelyn Ross to the registration committee of the general grand chapter.

Versing Throne, conductress, appointed the calendar committee for the year. A meeting will be held at her home Oct. 28 at 7 p.m. It was announced John Baker underwent quadruple bypass surgery at Barnes Hospital. Others listed as ill were John DeHart, Mary Petrosian, Luther Smith, Frances Williams, Jerry Fisher and Bess Henley. The chapter voted to sell chocolate Santa Clauses.

Officers were given red flashlights; all lights were turned off and the charter was illuminated by the flashlights. The worthy matron read a poem to mark the 25th anniversary of receiving the charter. She chose Psalms 16:6 and spoke on "the goodly heritage we have."

The worthy patron welcomed the gathering. Mary Ellen Lewis, worthy matron 25 years ago, reviewed the charter. She told of the beginning of the present chapter, which originally met in a hall at 19th Street and Delmar Avenue. Emily Tulley was the first worthy matron and John Costley was worthy patron. Rob Morris Chapter and New Hope Chapter filled the stations at the installation on Jan. 29, 1910.

Blankenship addressed the chapter and reminisced briefly on the past 25 years.

Gifts of new chains for the officers' pins were presented to the chapter by Worthy Matron MacDonough and Worthy Past Matron William MacDonough. Marshall Gladys Fuhrman gave them to the officers and Lloyd Lewis commented on the light ceremony honoring the chapter's charter.

Lewis served as pro-tem in the West. Birthdays of Mary Ellen Lewis, Lois Hebblethwaite and Earl French were observed.

Psychology and stress is chapter program

A program on psychology and stress was presented by Roberta Crawford at a meeting of Precursor Beta Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in the home of Betty Beck. Members took a stress test as Mrs. Crawford explained some of the physical, mental, and emotional signs of stress. All participated in head, neck, and shoulder exercises which relieve stress.

A business session was conducted by president Marilyn Lumpkins, who reported on the state convention held in Rockford Oct. 11-13. Attending with her were Carol Cathey and Linda Koenig.

The next state function will be an area meeting held in Kapskape in October 1986. Membership chairman JoAnn Pritchard noted that the third of the degree will be conferred on Mrs. Crawford Oct. 28, followed by a Halloween party.

The group worked on a ways and means project. Also attending were Vickie Barth, B.J. Jones, Judy Streif, Carol Cathey, Linda Koenig and Carolyn Walsh.

Wilson building center

S.M. Wilson & Co., general contractors, Granite City and St. Louis, have begun construction of a new motor control center for Ethyl Corp. in Sauget, Ill. The new facility is scheduled for completion in mid-November.

Car Care

Identify trouble-spots early with periodical tire inspections

There is a very close working relationship between your tires and several mechanical systems in your car. Tires, wheels, brakes, ball joints, shock absorbers and suspension systems all must be functioning smoothly to give you a comfortable, safe ride.

BFGoodrich suggests that you conduct a mini inspection tour around your car at least once a month.

Check the inflation pressure in your tires when they are cold, before the vehicle is moved. Driving the car for even a short distance will create heat buildup and cause air pressure to increase.

Again, check air pressure before the car is driven and note the amount of underinflation for each tire. Then add that amount of air when you reach a nearby service station, using your own hand-held pressure gauge as a check. And, don't forget to check the spare.

Then examine your tires, checking closely for signs of uneven wear. That usually means trouble of some kind. If this problem is detected early, the cause often can be corrected at a local tire service facility. Taking early action will extend the life of your tires.

UNEVEN WEAR PATTERNS may be caused by improper inflation pressure, misalignment, incorrect balance or suspension neglect. If not corrected, further damage to your tires will occur.

The next time you stop for gasoline, take a look at your tire tread. If the tread is less than 1/16th of an inch deep, you're inviting trouble. Government studies show that the risk of tire failure and loss of vehicle control rise sharply when tires have less than 1/16th of an inch of tread remaining.

Today's tires have built-in tread wear indicators, or "wear bars," which will appear at several points around the tire when the tread depth reaches the danger line of 1/16th of an inch. These wear bars look like narrow strips of smooth rubber across the tread. When you see the wear bars, the tires are worn out and should be replaced.

While you are checking the tread, remove any bits of glass, metal or other foreign objects that are wedged in the tread. Otherwise, they may work deeper into the tire, causing a flat. If any tire continually needs more air than the others, it is leaking. Have it taken off the car by a tire service professional and checked.

If your car pulls to the left or right, or your tires show uneven tread wear, your wheels may be out of alignment. Improper alignment can make your tire/wheel assembly turn in or turn out too much. Drive a badly misaligned car on one long trip and you can virtually run a set of good tires. One bad pothole may be enough to throw your car's front end out of alignment, even if you had it fixed an hour earlier. One bump

The tire on the left is more than 48 percent underinflated. It will run hotter, wear faster and/or unevenly, adversely affect vehicle handling and may fail in service. The sidewall bulge, which is characteristic of radial tires, makes it virtually impossible to visually determine if a tire is properly inflated, as shown in this example.

can even dent a wheel rim, causing a loss of air pressure.

If the problem is diagnosed as misalignment, be certain to take your car to a qualified professional for corrective measures.

OUT-OF-BALANCE tire/wheel assemblies also can ruin tires and give your car the shakes. An assembly seriously out of balance will develop a disturbing pounding at highway speeds, and you may experience a noticeable vibration in your steering wheel. When this happens, the tire/wheel assembly should be rebalanced by a tire service professional.

Any time you elect to change tires, the tire/wheel assembly should be balanced. The same is true if you notice that one of the balance weights has come off the assembly. Dynamic or spin balancing is the preferred method because it takes into account both the radial and lateral imbalances.

During your tire inspection, take a moment to check the condition of tire valves and valve caps. Check the valve stem for cracks, cuts and scrapes — it could be leaking air, and if so, should be replaced. It is recommended that a new tire valve be installed each time a tire is replaced. Make certain, also, that each valve requiring a valve cap does, in fact, have one. The cap has a very special purpose and should be replaced if missing. Valve caps keep out dirt and moisture, and prevent an accidental depression of the valve core and loss of air.

A valve stem can be damaged by improperly replacing a wheel cover. If the valve stem is not centered in the wheel cover hole, the edge of the hole will act like a knife vibrating against the stem. It could eventually cut through the stem, resulting in a sudden loss of air. (If you notice this condition, remove the wheel cover and place the cover hole over the valve in proper fashion.)

RIMS, OR WHEELS, should also receive a routine inspection. A defective rim can leak air and create a potentially hazardous situation. A bent rim is a common occurrence and usually is the result of hitting a pothole or other obstacle.

A rim in this condition can cause air leaks between the rim and the tire bead and can upset the dynamic balance of the tire and wheel assembly, causing a vibration. It also could cause the wheel to rub on the disc brake caliper housing, resulting in a buildup of heat in the wheel and explosive failure of the tire.

A rim that is rusty near the tire bead area can set up a chafing action during flexing, which can lead to air leaks and/or tire failure in the bead area. Rust also can cause a potentially hazardous situation. A bent rim is a common occurrence and usually is the result of hitting a pothole or other obstacle.

If, during your inspection, you notice that you have picked up a nail in one of your tires, leave it for a tire service professional to remove. In that way, the professional can note the location and size of the damage. Substitute the spare tire until the repair can be made. (A good spare tire, properly inflated, is a wonderful friend in an emergency.) Never permit a tire to be repaired if the tread puncture is larger than a quarter of an inch.

In all cases, motorists are strongly cautioned against repairing or mounting their own tires, due to safety hazards involved. This is a job for trained service personnel. Overinflation may break a bead, or even the rim, with explosive force, causing serious personal injury.

Seasonal tuneups offer many rewards

The benefits of seasonal tuneups are many and varied. Consider these advantages:

Fuel savings: Tests have shown a tuned engine can save about a gallon of gasoline per tankful over cars in need of a tuneup.

Dependable starting: Worn spark plugs are the leading cause of starting failure — not batteries. New spark plugs require less voltage to fire and are more efficient.

Improved performance: Tests have shown a 10.4 percent increase in engine power after a tuneup.

Cleaner air: There is a direct relationship between engine maintenance and exhaust emission. For instance, a 5 percent incidence of spark plug misfire increases the rate of hydrocarbon emissions by at least 300 percent.

Related trouble-shooting: During a tuneup, a knowledgeable mechanic will often spot other repair needs, such as problems with belts, hoses, shocks and the battery.

Build up your car's defense before winter begins

Batten down the hatches, seal the windows, stack the firewood, and, most importantly, prepare the vehicles.

Winter is on the way. "One of the most defenseless victims of winter is your automobile, dependent upon you to protect its vulnerable underpinnings including the exhaust, brake and suspension systems," says Walt Alley, director of training at the Midas Institute of Technology (MIT) in Palatine, Ill. "Preparations on these and other car systems will ensure that you, your passengers and your car make it safely and smoothly through the war against winter."

START YOUR winter preparation with a complete under-the-car safety inspection of your auto's vital systems and a tuneup. Here are a few of the primary points from Alley's fall care and safety checklist:

• Brakes: The brakes should be inspected just prior to the winter season.

If you hear a scrunch or squeal, notice the car pulling to one side while stopping, or have an unusually hard or soft brake pedal, your brakes should be checked.

• Exhaust: Severe weather, rocks and potholes can damage the exhaust system. A hole in the muffler or exhaust pipes can let engine exhaust fumes seep into the car. This creates a danger when driving with the windows closed against the cold winter air. Have your exhaust system inspected for possible leaks.

• Shocks: A hard jolt from a winter pothole will attempt to throw your car out of control. Worn shock absorbers may reduce the ability to control your car. Ineffective shocks may also cause excessive body roll on curves.

• Springs: If you notice that the tail end of your car sits lower than the front, you may have weak or broken rear springs. Weak springs can cause vehicle instability and result in loss of control, especially on slippery roads.

Your under-the-car suspension specialist can measure your car's height to determine the condition of your springs.

• Struts: Many foreign cars have strut suspension systems instead of the traditional shock absorbers. Struts require basically the same care as shocks, but there is a clue to detecting strut wear: Your tires will wear unevenly because of poor alignment caused by faulty struts.

• Oil and Lube: Cold temperatures thicken lubricating oil, making it hard for engine parts to move. Change the oil to the proper winter weight and replace the oil filter.

A fall lube will help to protect the suspension and steering parts from the ravages of snow, slush and salt.

• AFTER THE car has been fully inspected and prepared for winter, do your own safety maintenance inspection, Alley suggests. "Even if you don't know a lot about cars, you can still take several simple precautions."

• Make sure wipers are in good operating order and the windshield wiper fluid tank is full.

• Check the heater and defroster for proper functioning.

• Examine all fan belts, hoses and clamps for signs of wear and potential leaks. Squeaking noises from under the hood can mean your power steering pump belt is worn or needs adjustment.

• Inspect all lights. If you turn on your lights and hear a squeak from under the hood, your alternator belt is worn or needs adjustment.

• Check tire pressure and tire treads for uneven wear and make sure the spare is inflated and in good condition. Low tire pressure wastes gasoline and causes premature tire wear.

• Use a graphite-type spray in door and trunk locks to lubricate them throughout the winter.

To help you prepare for the winter driving season, the nearly 1,500 Midas Muffler and Brake Shops across the country offer free under-the-car safety inspections.

Awareness of all hazards prevents driving regrets

The need for clear visibility when driving cannot be overemphasized, points out New Driver magazine. Unfortunately, far too many drivers do not seem to understand all that is entailed in meeting this need.

The laws of physics dictate that a car in motion on slippery surfaces will tend to stay in motion - unless the driver has planned well in advance to stop it. That's where visibility comes in.

Cleaning the windshield - or even the rear of the car windows - isn't enough. In addition to being able to see other drivers, you have to make yourself visible to them. Thrown cleaning snow off the headlights (which also lets you see ahead more easily), taillights and running lights. It also means cleaning snow off the body of the car and especially those shiny, reflective bumpers.

Snow, fog and rain can reduce visibility remarkably. It makes sense, then, to do whatever you can to increase your outward vision and to make other drivers aware of your car's position. Use your lights; if need be, use your horn. You want to be seen and be seen.

Clean windshield wipers and windshield washer antifreeze are other visibility items that are too often neglected until they're needed. Take care of them in the fall before winter storms blow in. Rapidly changing road conditions are one of the chief hazards facing drivers during winter months, and they should be aware that if a road isn't dry, it's slippery. Temperatures within a degree or two of freezing produce some of the worst driving conditions.

Short trips take toll on some parts

Limited driving does not necessarily mean vehicle maintenance can be reduced, says Car Care Council.

Some components actually deteriorate faster in short-run operation than they can be particularly vulnerable to the ravages of cold-weather driving.

Engine oil is contaminated more quickly in cars subjected to short runs and stop-and-go driving, especially in winter. As a result, these cars should have more frequent oil and filter changes than cars that are driven regularly.

Exhaust systems suffer from limited driving, too, says the council. Condensation accumulating in a muffler accelerates the rusting process, especially when the temperature drops.

Also prone to deterioration from the elements, whether or not the car is running, are windshield wiper blades - another often-forgotten component that always should be checked as part of a pre-winter preventative maintenance program.

tions. Bridges and overpasses freeze over while the main road surfaces may remain dry and passable, and the snow can create rivers that stream across roadways to form ice when the temperature drops.

Crosswinds combined with slippery roads can cause more than their share of problems for drivers. A few of the most likely places for unexpected gusts are alongside passing trucks, on overpasses and on stretches of road next to open fields.

Darkness poses another driving hazard. Because you have to rely on your headlights for information and because it takes longer to stop on wet pavement when you spot a hazard ahead, drive at a speed well within the range of your lights. If snow is falling or if conditions are foggy, don't use your bright lights - the glare reflected back can blind you. And if you have to pull off the road for some reason, be sure to get completely off the road and turn on your emergency flashers.

S.A.D.D. group gets charter, starts Safe-Ride program

The Granite City Chapter of S.A.D.D., Students Against Driving Drunk, has received its charter from the national S.A.D.D. organization.

Elected officers are: Angel Molina and Cheryl Swift, co-presidents; Patty Hahne, vice-president; Laura Jansen, secretary; Sam Hull, treasurer; Maria Schrader, director of public relations; Diane Martinez, director of education and Teri Kircher, director of safe-ride.

The objective of this organization is to prevent accidents due to driving while intoxicated. There are two major ways the group uses to achieve this goal: Contracts for Life and the Safe-Ride Program.

The Contract for Life is a contract in which the teenager and the parent agree to call each other for a ride when one or the other has been drinking, or their escorts have been drinking. It is stated in the document that no questions will be asked until a later date.

The Safe-Ride Program is operated from the school cafeteria with the help of adult volunteers. Anyone may call the hot line number and receive a safe ride home.

This program will begin Oct. 25. Homecoming night, and will continue every Friday evening thereafter.

Businesses or individuals interested in being a part of S.A.D.D. by contributing funds or volunteering time may contact Ron Dillard at Granite City High School.

THE LAW AND YOU
BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

A husband and wife who are getting divorced often experience a great amount of emotional turmoil. There is frequently anger, bitterness and uncertainty on the part of one or both spouses. In some cases, a divorce is not even more complex because the divorced person has been unable until recently to keep his or her health insurance coverage provided by the former spouse's employer.

As an example of how this health insurance consideration has affected divorce settlements, need only look to a recent case decided in a nearby county. In this situation, the husband filed for divorce after having been married 15 years. His wife was covered on his group health insurance provided by his employer. It should be noted that the wife here had a pre-existing health condition which would have made it impossible for her to obtain health insurance. Because of this, she counterpoised for an individual health insurance plan in an effort to remain married so she would not lose insurance coverage. The court in this case granted the legal separation primarily because of insurance considerations.

In response to this problem, Governor James Thompson recently signed legislation which would allow divorced and widowed persons to maintain group health insurance coverage through their former spouse's employer. As

GC student attending BAC free

Cathy Browning of Granite City is attending Belleville Area College tuition-free this year. She is just one of 17 area residents who received tuition-waiver scholarships because of high school academic achievements.

Belleville Area College made one-year tuition waivers available to a student, other than the valedictorian, from each high school in the college district for the first time this fall. Recipients were selected by the high schools' superintendents from among students in the top 10 percent of each school's 1985 graduating class.

BAC's Financial Aid and Placement Director Pat Talley said BAC sent letters to the superintendents of the 28 high schools in the BAC district explaining the new scholarship. Superintendents then notified the Financial Aid and Placement Office of their selections.

Fifteen of 17 graduates who received the scholarships are attending BAC this fall, Talley said.

"These scholarships were instituted late this year and letters were sent to the high schools after June graduation," Talley said. "We plan to get them out to the high schools before graduation next year so there will be a bigger response. We hope all 28 high schools will award these scholarships."

Browning had applied for a scholarship or grant to attend a four-year school, she said. She isn't sure she would have gotten one.

Then she found out about the BAC scholarship.

"I was proud that I had gotten it," Browning said. "I was really excited about it."

"It has helped me out a lot," she said. "I have money in a trust that I want to use when I transfer for the last two years of school. This scholarship will let me save that money until then."

Browning, a graduate of Granite

City High School, attends BAC's Granite City Campus as a part-time student and works part-time at St. Louis Staff and Co., a souvenir shop at St. Louis Center.

Wayne Colemeyer, principal of Red Bud High School, said he thinks the scholarships are a terrific opportunity for students.

"These scholarships allow those kids who have no means of getting a scholarship to receive help to attend college," he said. "Usually, the top graduate at a high school gets scholarships. This scholarship allows other good students to have some financial support so they can have a chance to attend college."

The scholarship is an expansion of BAC's tuition-waiver program, Talley said.

"Valedictorian scholarships have been given to the top-ranking students from each high school for the last few years," Talley said.

Valedictorians from each high school in the BAC district can attend BAC tuition-free for the fall and spring semesters after their graduations.

Other area colleges

ADAM SCHNEIDER, son of Gary and Janice Schneider of 1929 Joy Ave., has been selected as a member of the 1985 Culver-Stuckton College Concert Choir. Schneider is a freshman at the college, majoring in theatre.

KAREN KELLY SCHUTZENHOFFER of Granite City, assistant professor of nursing at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, has been named assistant dean of the School of Nursing. She has been a member of the UMSL faculty since 1980.

Schutzenhofer received her bachelor's and master's degrees in nursing and her doctorate in education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She is the daughter of Dorothy and the late Walter Kelly of Granite City. She and her husband Ben have two children, Eric and Katie.

KIMBERLY WATSON of 2553 Benton St., is an assistant director of Hines Hall at Indiana State University. Ranking second under the hall director, the assistant aids in the organization of hall activities and functions. Her responsibilities include hiring and supervision of the reception desk staff and the planning of at least one educational program each semester. Watson is a graduate student at the university.

MARK DONIFF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Doniff of 3252 Erin Drive, is enrolled at Lake Forest College this fall. He is a graduate of Granite City Senior High School.

THE PERFORMING ARTS AREA at Washington University in St. Louis will present "Salome" at the Mallinckrodt Center on campus. "Salome" is based on the story of the death of John the Baptist told in the Gospels. Salome, the daughter of Queen Herodias, is promised by King Herod that she may have whatever she asks if she will dance for him. After her "Dance of the Seven Veils," Salome requests the one thing which Herod is afraid to give her. Admission is $5 to the general public, $4 to senior citizens, students and Washington University faculty and staff.

Tickets, interested persons may call the Edison box office at 1-314-689-6513.

LAURA L. CHAPPELL, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Chappell has been named to the 1988 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." She is a senior from Peru State College majoring in mathematics and physical education.

CLAUDIA BRANCH of Granite City received a scholarship totalling $1,000 from the Illinois Health Improvement Association. Branch is a student at Belleville Area College majoring in nursing education.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

As an example of how this health insurance consideration has affected divorce settlements, need only look to a recent case decided in a nearby county. In this situation, the husband filed for divorce after having been married 15 years. His wife was covered on his group health insurance provided by his employer. It should be noted that the wife here had a pre-existing health condition which would have made it impossible for her to obtain health insurance. Because of this, she counterpoised for an individual health insurance plan in an effort to remain married so she would not lose insurance coverage. The court in this case granted the legal separation primarily because of insurance considerations.

In response to this problem, Governor James Thompson recently signed legislation which would allow divorced and widowed persons to maintain group health insurance coverage through their former spouse's employer. As long as premiums are paid by the divorced person seeking to maintain coverage, individuals under age 65 would be allowed to keep insurance coverage up to two years. People over 65 could continue in the group plan as long as they would qualify for Medicare benefits.

Several business groups, including the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, attempted to convince the Governor to veto the legislation by arguing that it would increase insurance premiums. They felt this was the case because it would force the companies to cover increasing numbers of high risk people. The Governor realized there was a potential problem in this regard, but he signed the measure so that people in this situation would have the opportunity to maintain adequate health care coverage.

Why is the legislation significant? Often the divorced spouse has been able to qualify for individual health insurance coverage but the cost has been prohibitive. Generally speaking the cost of individual coverage is greater than group coverage. Furthermore, some individuals previously covered as part of the group are unable to qualify for individual coverage because of pre-existing health conditions. This new law should take care of these previous inequities.
